6-FOOT TIDE IS PUSHED INTO MIAMI

Both Pakistan, India Warned Of U.S. Plan

Economic Aid Cutoff Seen if Battle Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without saying so directly, the United States is warning India and Pakistan that they stand to lose their substantial American economic aid if they continue to fight.

The State Department announced Tuesday a halt in military assistance to the two countries, claiming they both were using U.S. equipment in their war over Kashmir.

The threat of a suspension of economic assistance is implicit in word from officials that the matter is still being considered.

A halt in aid appears to be Washington's trump card at the moment. Otherwise, the United States has put its power and influence behind the peace mission of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

U.S. policy may be further outlined by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He is scheduled to testify at a meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

The House Far Eastern Affairs subcommittee will investigate the war Thursday, hearing William Handley, deputy assistant secretary of state for Near East and South Asian affairs, and Carol Lise, director of the Office of South Asian Affairs.

Tuesday night, in an interview on an NBC television program on United States foreign policy, Rusk called the conflict a threat to the containment of communism.

"If these two countries could find peace with each other, the subcontinent could be impregnable from the point of view of defense and safety from the outside," he said, adding:

"We have very large stakes in the peace of the subcontinent." In the fiscal year that ended June 30, the United States gave Pakistan $349.3 million in aid and gave India $725 million, including large shipments of wheat and other grains.

No funds have been committed this year. However, the United States promised in June to extend $435 million in economic assistance to India for its development program.

The United States was expected to announce its economic aid to Pakistan at a meeting of the World Bank which was scheduled for July. U.S. officials got the meeting postponed to Sept. 23, however, and Pakistan complained that it was being pressured through the aid program.

On Capitol Hill, the India-Pakistan conflict raised the hopes of foreign aid opponents that they can cut the annual aid appropriations bill.

The $4-billion measure, including $3,285,000,000 for direct foreign assistance, was scheduled for a final House vote late today.

The last were a party of nine, led by Iron County Sheriff Otto Fife of nearby Cedar City. He led a party of 21 which began the hike Saturday, when weather forecasts indicated it would probably not rain.

India Launches Two New Drives on West Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India launched two new army attacks into West Pakistan today after reporting Pakistani bombers tried to attack New Delhi but were driven off.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament one Indian spearhead already was five miles into southeast Pakistan. Reports reaching New Delhi said this force captured Gadr, six miles inside the frontier about 220 miles east of Karachi. Pakistan's main port and naval base. These accounts said the army was advancing toward Khwarar, 15 miles inside Pakistan. The Defense Ministry could not confirm these reports.

Chavan said another force crossed the northern frontier near the sector in southwestern Kashmir where the Pakistani army invasion began a week ago. He said this attack was forcing Pakistani units in the Chhamb area of Kashmir to withdraw.

Thus India opened three fronts in West Pakistan, the third one being in the Lahore sector about 110 miles south of Chhamb.

Reports from Pakistan, however, said all Indian troops had been driven from Pakistani soil on the Lahore front.

A New Delhi spokesman said the thrust into West Pakistan in the southeast was in reprisal for a Pakistani naval bombardment of the port of Dwarka, about 240 miles down the coast from Karachi.

This aroused speculation that Karachi was the Indian target. Karachi is headquarters of the Pakistani navy.

An Indian announcement said the naval attack on Dwarka caused no damage of military significance and damage to civilian life and property was still being assessed.

However, Radio Pakistan claimed the naval shelling destroyed military and radar installations at a base at Dwarka from which it said air attacks

Speech, Hearing Project Approved By County Board

A "Community Speech and Hearing Project," sponsored by the local Health Department and county schools, has been approved by Pickaway County's Board of Commissioners.

The Commission authorized County School Superintendent George McDowell to proceed with steps in making proper application for the special grant-in-aid project.

According to McDowell, the project is a three-year program with funds provided by the federal government. It would be conducted at no expense to Pickaway County, except for underwriting the first quarter costs. The initial expenditure would be returned at the close of the project.

The solons approved the program during yesterday's opening of their third quarterly session. They met today and will conclude with an all-day meeting tomorrow.

Pope Plans U.N. Visit In October

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican press office announced today Pope Paul VI would go to New York to visit the United Nations on Oct. 4.

The announcement did not say how long the Pope would spend in New York on the first papal trip to the United States. But the director of the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said he would be there only one day.

The 8,500-mile round trip will be Pope Paul's third major voyage since he opened a new era of papal travel by flying to the Holy Land and then to India last year.

He is expected to go again by air, leaving Rome on Sunday Oct. 3, and spending the next day in New York. Presumably he will fly back overnight to be in Rome Tuesday morning. In this way he will be gone a minimum amount of time while the Vatican Ecumenical Council is holding its final session.

Raimondo Manzini, director of L'Osservatore Romano, told newsmen the Pope would attend a major religious service in New York City on the afternoon of Oct. 4.

Vatican sources said the service would probably be in St. Patrick's Cathedral, on Fifth Avenue. It presumably will be the Pope's main activity outside of his attendance at a session of the U.N. General Assembly.

He is expected to make a major peace appeal before the assembly.

'Russian Roulette' Is Fatal to Youth

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—A 19-year-old Tallmadge youth died today of a gunshot wound in the head suffered playing "Russian roulette" at a drive-in theater near here.

Larry Warren was shot Monday. Police said they were told he placed a cartridge in a .22-caliber pistol, twirled the cylinder, put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger.

The shooting occurred before a girl friend and another couple in Warren's car, police said.

today's morning agenda. The lawmakers were directed to appear before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio concerning a request for the Batmore & Ohio Railroad to provide protection at a crossing on Bellah Road in Darby Twp.

The move to acquire protection at the crossing was initiated by Orville Clark, Route 1, Orient. He, along with Darby Trustees and other residents, claim school buses cross the tracks on a daily basis during the school term.

Additional business included the submission of a report to the State Highway Department noting that speed traffic signs have been erected on a portion of County Road 511 (Old Route 23). The traffic control measure was approved earlier by the state.

The new speed limit is 45 miles per hour. It will be in effect from the north corporation limit of Circleville to a point .90 miles northward.

The Commission's agenda for Thursday calls for attendance at a meeting in Columbus with Gov. James A. Rhodes concerning state assistance for a modern airport here. A similar invitation was extended to 55 other Ohio counties having less than adequate aviation facilities.

A review of quarterly animal claims will be conducted by the solons Thursday afternoon.

Peking Protests India's Action

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China protested today against what it claimed were "successive serious violations" of Communist China's territory and sovereignty by Indian troops.

China demanded that India "dismantle" all military structures "built beyond or on the China-Sikkim border."

The Chinese also urged India to "withdraw" its armed forces and "stop all acts of aggression and provocation against China in the western, middle and eastern sectors of the Chinese-Indian border."

The note, issued by the Chinese Communist Foreign Ministry and sent to the Indian government, was broadcast by Peking's New China News Agency.

Beatle Haircuts Found Nurturing Skin Disorder

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — A form of teenage mania is not the only ailment that may be attributed to the Beatles.

The fact they started wearing the hair over the forehead is resulting in many cases of what a barber has termed "Beatle forehead."

G. LeRoy Pulos, who trims adolescent heads at the "Chop Shop," reports seeing many cases of aggravated acne under the mops that hang down to the eyebrows.

The term could be called "Beatle skin." The condition is seen also among girls who wear their hair down the side of their faces.

A Salt Lake physician specializing in dermatology, Dr. Lewis Kirkham, said the observation was accurate, as doctors are seeing more cases of acne made worse by overhanging hair.

He pointed out that hair becomes dirty easily, collecting bacteria and warming the skin to promote development of acne.

Asked how he treats cases of acne, the physician replied: "First, I make them get the hair off their faces."

Then the acne patients are directed to wash their hair every day and to use a non-oily hair dressing. The doctor said the idea that frequent washing causes baldness is just so much bunk.

Other aspects of acne treatment are frequent washing (but not scrubbing) of the skin with special soaps, use of ultra-violet light and X rays, a balanced diet and generally good hygiene.

The doctor said young people with acne should drink plenty of water so the kidneys will excrete all solid waste products.

First Civilian Spacemen To Be Named This Week

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The first civilian astronauts to fly a Gemini space mission are expected to be named this week.

Top sources say Neil A. Armstrong and Elliot M. See Jr. will pilot Gemini 8, a two-day rendezvous and docking mission expected early next year.

Armstrong, 35, a Korean war veteran from Wapakoneta, Ohio, and See, 38, of Dallas, Tex., were backup crewmen for Gemini 5 astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., who last week completed a record flight of 190 hours and 55 minutes.

Sources say the Gemini 8 crew must be named soon so they can start the tough, grinding training schedule. A Manned Spacecraft Center spokesman said today the selection probably would be made this week from the astronaut pool — which totals 33.

Armstrong, who was shot down over Korea but parachuted safely behind United Nations lines, is a former X15 test pilot. He had charge of astronaut training before being picked to the Gemini 5 crew last February. He is expected to be named command pilot.

See was a test pilot for General Electric Co. before being named an astronaut in 1962. His shy manner and soft voice seem more applicable to a grade school teacher than a daring astronaut.

Cooper and Conrad still are briefing doctors, scientists and engineers on details of their 120 orbits. Armstrong and See have been taking part in the sessions.

Two Gemini flights will be flown before Gemini 8. The next one, Gemini 6, is expected Oct. 25, with Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford aboard. It is scheduled for two days and will be the first attempt to link two vehicles in space. Gemini 8 will continue to perfect the maneuver, considered vital for moon missions.

Gemini 7, a 14-day mission, is expected in December. Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell are the prime crew.

Wounded Escapee Flees Hospital

CINCINNATI (AP) — Malcolm Scarborough, 35, being held as an escapee from the Macomb, Mich., county jail, escaped early today from General Hospital where he was undergoing treatment for a bullet wound in his shoulder.

Scarboro had been arrested here Aug. 29, spotted driving a stolen car. He had escaped the Michigan jail the day before. He said the bullet wound had been inflicted the day before in a service station holdup in northern Ohio.

Police said Scarboro, with a long record of jail escapes, was wearing leg irons and hospital clothing when he fled the hospital. The leg irons were found later.

140 Mph. Gale Batters Keys

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Betsy pushed a six-foot wall of water across Florida's lower east coast today — the highest since the disastrous flood of 1926 — and battered the Florida Keys with savage, 140-mile-an-hour winds.

The mighty tide, pushed by a raging east wind that followed the passage of the storm center, sent the Miami River surging out of its banks for blocks on both sides and into numerous industrial plants.

Elsewhere, the waves swamped residential islands and sent salty floods pounding down the streets of Miami, Fort Lauderdale and other cities. Water surged three feet deep in Miami's palm-lined Biscayne Boulevard.

Not since the infamous storm of 1926, which sent Miami settlers streaming back northward, had a hurricane driven so much seawater ashore.

The metropolitan areas of the Florida Gold Coast apparent escaped major damage from winds which peaked at 105 miles an hour at Miami, considerably lower than expected.

But word still was to come from the smaller communities along the Florida Keys over which the eye of the mighty storm passed, lashing out with 140-mile-an-hour blows.

Despite the hours-long battering of wind and waves, only one death was reported. Helen Cooper, 40, was electrocuted at Miami by a falling power line. Fear rose, however, for nine persons believed stranded aboard three houseboats in a mangrove inlet at Ragged Key, south of Miami.

"We told them to abandon the boats," a Coast Guard officer said. "They waved us off."

As Betsy raged on westward across the narrow bottom of the Florida Peninsula, aiming for the Gulf of Mexico and the other coastlines ahead, word came that Nassau had been "stunned, shocked and badly damaged" by the hurricane.

But Etienne Dupuch, publisher of the Nassau Tribune and acting premier of the islands, said in a telegram to The Associated Press that "so far we have no casualties."

This seemed miraculous in view of the 12-hour beating the 50,000 residents of the Bahamian capital took from the storm Tuesday.

Probably the greatest damage dealt by the wind on the Florida mainland was the destruction of overhead power lines which knocked out electric service to 80 per cent of Miami and Fort Lauderdale customers. This meant for many of them days of living without lights, refrigeration or cooking facilities.

House trailers were smashed and there was the other inevitable wind debris in the hurricane's wake — shattered windows, fallen signs, utility poles and trees.

Veteran Says Hurricane 'Worst I've Ever Seen'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For 30 years, Horace Cort, 52, an Associated Press photographer in Atlanta, has covered hurricanes in the South. Following is his account of being stranded by Hurricane Betsy.)

By HORACE CORT
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—This is the worst one I've ever been in.

I'm at a motel, about five miles south of the Key West business district. In every direction I look there is water, 2 to 5 feet of water.

I can't say the entire key is submerged, because I can't see it all, but everything I see is submerged.

Mrs. R.L. Moody and her husband came in by boat. They run a grocery store on Stock Island, the first key north of Key West. They said Stock Island is completely under water.

They had to evacuate because the wind — it's more than 100 miles an hour — blew the roof off their store.

So far, I haven't heard of any loss of life or serious injury, but property damage is going to be extensive in the keys.

There's an emergency radio network set up in the keys and it reports heavy flood in many places. Big Pine, a key 28 miles north of here, reports 4 to 5 feet of water.

At Marathon, about 40 miles north of here, there are 400 people in a shelter. That must be about the entire population there.

Another Tropical Storm Under Study

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—As Hurricane Betsy raged across Florida, weathermen were presiding today over the possible birth of another tropical storm 1,200 miles to the southeast.

A tropical depression moving toward the northern Leeward Islands had developed a circulation and was sending squalls out over a 150-mile wide area.

Top winds so far were only 35 miles an hour as the depression moved toward St. Martin in the northern Leeward Islands, at the eastern edge of the Caribbean Sea.

It was whirling on a northwesterly course, on a historic path of September storms.

and schools in Key West there are 1,386 people and they're pouring in.

In the last hour, the water has risen six inches here and it's now coming in the lobby of the motel.

The water is too deep to move about and the wind is blowing too hard.

I tried to get out and the wind knocked me down. I landed on my back and slid about 15 feet before I stopped. I was able to crawl back along the building.

I had gone out to try to photograph some men trying to rescue a dog that had been swept into one of the motel's two swimming pools. They finally got the dog.

The Weather Bureau here says the hurricane eye is 43 miles north of us. There's a hard, driving rain.

Mr. Magoo, Pet Horse, Causes Fuss

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a horse named Mr. Magoo find happiness with a 13-year-old girl in a New York suburb?

No, said the Village Board of Bayville, on Long Island, Tuesday night. The board reaffirmed its previous decision that Karen Southard's brown horse is not a domestic animal and therefore can't be kept in the village.

Karen's father, Ernest S. Southard, vowed today that he'll fight on.

"I have to," he said. "After all, I promised her she could have a horse."

Southard built a stable last November in a 62-by-105-foot fenced area by his $35,000 home for Mr. Magoo, a quarter horse. Quarter horses are a breed known for their speed up to a quarter of a mile.

This brought happiness to Karen and Mr. Magoo, but not to some of the Southards' neighbors.

They complained that Mr. Magoo was a nuisance and violated a village ordinance against keeping nondomestic animals.

The board agreed Tuesday night, charging the horse causes "an odor offensive to the immediate neighbors, a disturbing collection and emission of dust in the surrounding area and a safety hazard to pedestrians in the narrow village roadways."

Probably the greatest damage dealt by the wind on the Florida mainland was the destruction of overhead power lines which knocked out electric service to 80 per cent of Miami and Fort Lauderdale customers. This meant for many of them days of living without lights, refrigeration or cooking facilities.

House trailers were smashed and there was the other inevitable wind debris in the hurricane's wake — shattered windows, fallen signs, utility poles and trees.

Veteran Says Hurricane 'Worst I've Ever Seen'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For 30 years, Horace Cort, 52, an Associated Press photographer in Atlanta, has covered hurricanes in the South. Following is his account of being stranded by Hurricane Betsy.)

By HORACE CORT
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—This is the worst one I've ever been in.

I'm at a motel, about five miles south of the Key West business district. In every direction I look there is water, 2 to 5 feet of water.

I can't say the entire key is submerged, because I can't see it all, but everything I see is submerged.

Mrs. R.L. Moody and her husband came in by boat. They run a grocery store on Stock Island, the first key north of Key West. They said Stock Island is completely under water.

They had to evacuate because the wind — it's more than 100 miles an hour — blew the roof off their store.

So far, I haven't heard of any loss of life or serious injury, but property damage is going to be extensive in the keys.

There's an emergency radio network set up in the keys and it reports heavy flood in many places. Big Pine, a key 28 miles north of here, reports 4 to 5 feet of water.

At Marathon, about 40 miles north of here, there are 460 people in a shelter. That must be about the entire population there.

Another Tropical Storm under Study

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—As Hurricane Betsy raged across Florida, weathermen were presiding today over the possible birth of another tropical storm 1,200 miles to the southeast.

A tropical depression moving toward the northern Leeward Islands had developed a circulation and was sending squalls out over a 150-mile wide area.

Top winds so far were only 35 miles an hour as the depression moved toward St. Martin in the northern Leeward Islands, at the eastern edge of the Caribbean Sea.

It was whirling on a north-westerly course, on a historic path of September storms.

and schools in Key West there are 1,386 people and they're pouring in.

In the last hour, the water has risen six inches here and it's now coming in the lobby of the motel.

The water is too deep to move about and the wind is blowing too hard.

I tried to get out and the wind knocked me down. I landed on my back and slid about 15 feet before I stopped. I was able to crawl back along the building.

I had gone out to try to photograph some men trying to rescue a dog that had been swept into one of the motel's two swimming pools. They finally got the dog.

The Weather Bureau here says the hurricane eye is 43 miles north of us. There's a hard, driving rain.

Stock Mart Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

The list was irregularly higher for much of the morning, then began to soften.

Steels seemed to be recovering at the start from Tuesday's sharp decline, but there was no buying power behind them and they relapsed into a definite decline.

A solid front of gains by the auto stocks softened and the group had little left on the upside.

A selection of gains by key stocks among nonferrous metals, aerospace issues, electronics and drugs was a firming influence.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .1 at 336.9 with industrials unchanged, rails off .5 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .72 at 910.83.

Labor Day Traffic Toll Set at 563

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed 563 persons on the nation's highways during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend, a record number for the holiday period.

The previous record of deaths in traffic accidents during the final summer holiday period was 557 set in 1963. Last year, there were 531 deaths.

Another 25 persons died in boating accidents during this year's holiday period and 45 persons drowned.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 500 and 600 persons would die in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. (local time) and midnight of Labor Day.

Miami Beach's famed "Hotel Row" was hit hard by the tides.

Water flowed three feet deep entirely across Key Biscayne, a resort and residential island off the mainland at Miami, and three barges torn loose from their moorings by the wind knocked out the island's only escape route, the Rickenbacker Causeway. Its harbor was reported "in shambles."

Key Biscayne residents had been warned to evacuate the island, but the tide there was not as high as expected and there was no report of casualties.

Canals interlacing Fort Lauderdale surged out of their banks and put several luxury apartment islands under water. On the seaside at Hollywood, the tide chewed out a portion of the east wall of the big luxury hotel, The Diplomat.

High water and toppled telephone poles blocked U.S. Highway 1 at Florida City, cutting the only land access route to the hard-hit Florida Keys. The Tamiami rail, crossing Florida from Miami to Naples on the Gulf Coast was laced with fallen trees.

The sea heaped sand dunes up on Highway A1A, which runs from Miami northward near the beach, and in some sections the road was broken by the tides.

At the height of the storm, two masked gunmen broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan E. Murray at Miami and tortured them for three hours with lighted cigarettes before fleeing with $5,000 in jewelry. Miami Beach police arrested three men trying to loot damaged stores.

Although the tides were the biggest since 1926, weather forecaster Gilbert Clark said Miami was "very lucky, at that."

The highest tides were in the north wall of the eye, which struck near Homestead 20 miles south of Miami. Had it crossed the coast a few miles farther north, Clark said, Miami's flood would have been as great as the devastating one of '26.

Water flowed 3 1/2 feet deep around the Miami Herald Building on the shore of Biscayne Bay, forcing the newspaper to postpone publication of its final edition.

The water was expected to recede rapidly with the fall of the east wind following passage of the hurricane.

At Miami, winds peaked at 105 miles an hour, well below the 135-mile blasts aimed at the city last year by Hurricane Cleo. The wall of the storm's eye bearing the worst of the winds passed 10 miles south of the city.

Forecaster Gordon Dunn of the Miami Weather Bureau said "We came off rather well, as hurricanes go."

Torrential rains fell for hours, adding to the deluge from the sea. Miami's total was expected to reach 10 inches.

South Florida's $2-million avocado crop was wiped out. "It was just ready for harvest," said grower George Cooper. "We couldn't have done a better job of getting it off the trees than Betsy did."

Near Palm Beach, the Panamanian cargo ship Amariylis was driven aground just offshore with 28 persons aboard, but the Coast Guard said the vessel was in no immediate danger.

In Nassau, Dupuch said there was no word on the fate of the large Bahamian islands of Abaco and Eleuthera, which were blacked out by power failure during Betsy's assault.

Dupuch called an emergency Cabinet meeting to set up relief operations. Physicians and police stood ready to fly to stricken areas as quickly as weather permitted. The U.S. government sent an offer to help.

Betsy hit dozens of big and small Florida cities on a curving, 300-mile stretch of coastline, but took its biggest toll in the metropolitan area of the lower east coast.

Then it roared across the swampy lower half of the state to the smaller communities on the west side, and toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Forecasters couldn't tell immediately what conditions the storm would meet in the gulf, how much longer it would rage the seas, or what other coastlines it might cross.

But they felt sure that it would emerge into the gulf as tough as ever — and over the warm subtropical waters which feed fury into a hurricane it could grow even more.

Once in the gulf, it must hit another coast, Dunn said, because "there is no other escape."

Tides rolling out from the 600-mile-wide hurricane boiled southward toward the north coast of Cuba and thousands of families were evacuated in fear of severe flooding.

Some 18,000 persons jammed into 143 Red Cross shelters on Florida's southern tip Tuesday night.

Pro and Con Arguments On Sales Tax Hike Issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ordered more than three million copies of "pro and con" arguments on a proposed one per cent sales tax increase printed today for statewide mailing to voters.

Ohio's constitution requires distribution of the arguments on the amendment proposal placed on Nov. 2 election ballots as Issue No. 1 by the Ohio Education Council, an organization of school groups.

The plan, rejected by the legislature, calls for an increase in the state's 3 per cent retail sales tax to 4 per cent to raise an extra $116 million annually for public schools.

The texts of the arguments: FOR THE PROPOSAL

"For our children's sake, vote 'YES' on Issue 1, the much-heralded 'Plan for Educational Progress.'"

It goes to the heart of the problem by requiring Ohio to invest more in elementary and high school education.

Last year, Ohio invested only $119 per pupil from state funds. That's $74 under the national average. Local property owners made up much of this vast difference, but — with education costs rising—they look to the state to pay its share.

The $17 per pupil increase in Ohio's 1965 Education Act is not enough to reverse the downward percentage trend in state support; would not assure each child of his educational birth-right.

As the 6th wealthiest state, we can't expect to attract much industry while neighboring states devote far more to education.

Will Ohio provide funds urgently needed to expand vocational training?

Will we supply child guidance counselors many children desperately need in this pressure-packed age?

Will we compete for qualified teachers by really narrowing the gap between Ohio's and nearby salary levels?

Will we provide more special classes for handicapped children? More help to districts blessed with many children but shorted in tax duplicates?

You answer "YES" to all these questions by voting for Issue 1.

It provides another $116 million annually for school districts.

Necessary funds come from a penny sales tax increase, Ohio's first tax boost for education in 31 years. With the food-drug exemptions, the Thatcher report shows it's easier on most of us than property taxes.

Governor Rhodes and Democratic leaders agree on the need for more state aid for education.

PTA, educational associations, and many church, labor, business and civic groups enthusiastically endorse Issue 1.

Pro and Con Arguments On Sales Tax Hike Issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ordered more than three million copies of "pro and con" arguments on a proposed one per cent sales tax increase printed today for statewide mailing to voters.

Ohio's constitution requires distribution of the arguments on the amendment proposal placed on Nov. 2 election ballots as Issue No. 1 by the Ohio Education Council, an organization of school groups.

The plan, rejected by the legislature, calls for an increase in the state's 3 per cent retail sales tax to 4 per cent to raise an extra $116 million annually for public schools.

The texts of the arguments: FOR THE PROPOSAL

"For our children's sake, vote 'YES' on Issue 1, the much-heralded 'Plan for Educational Progress.'"

It goes to the heart of the problem by requiring Ohio to invest more in elementary and high school education.

Last year, Ohio invested only $119 per pupil from state funds. That's $74 under the national average. Local property owners made up much of this vast difference, but — with education costs rising—they look to the state to pay its share.

The $17 per pupil increase in Ohio's 1965 Education Act is not enough to reverse the downward percentage trend in state support; would not assure each child of his educational birth-right.

As the 6th wealthiest state, we can't expect to attract much industry while neighboring states devote far more to education.

Will Ohio provide funds urgently needed to expand vocational training?

Will we supply child guidance counselors many children desperately need in this pressure-packed age?

Will we compete for qualified teachers by really narrowing the gap between Ohio's and nearby salary levels?

Will we provide more special classes for handicapped children? More help to districts blessed with many children but shorted in tax duplicates?

You answer "YES" to all these questions by voting for Issue 1.

It provides another $116 million annually for school districts.

Necessary funds come from a penny sales tax increase, Ohio's first tax boost for education in 31 years. With the food-drug exemptions, the Thatcher report shows it's easier on most of us than property taxes.

Governor Rhodes and Democratic leaders agree on the need for more state aid for education.

PTA, educational associations, and many church, labor, business and civic groups enthusiastically endorse Issue 1.

on Krachi were being made.

The broadcast added that Indian air force planes attacked the Pakistani navy ships and the naval guns shot down some of the planes. It said the Pakistani ships suffered no losses.

India's other invasion drive, in the Lahore-Amritsar area 500 miles northeast of Barmer, "continued to make progress" despite Pakistani counterattacks which were "being repulsed with heavy losses to the Pakistanis," the Indian announcement claimed.

Again there was a conflicting report from the Pakistani side. A spokesman in Rawalpindi said the Indian offensive has been bogged down for the past 24 hours.

Air raid sirens sounded at 2:45 a.m. in New Delhi and wailed for 10 minutes, but officials said the Indian air force had repelled an air attack on the capital. A Defense Ministry spokesman said one Pakistani plane, an American-made C130 transport, went down in flames near New Delhi's Palam International Airport.

New Delhi had expected a raid in reprisal for an Indian air raid Tuesday against the airport at Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital. The Defense Ministry spokesman said no damage was sustained in New Delhi and made no mention of Indian losses in the air clash.

Stock Mart Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

The list was irregularly higher for much of the morning, then began to soften.

Steels seemed to be recovering at the start from Tuesday's sharp decline, but there was no buying power behind them and they relapsed into a definite decline.

A solid front of gains by the auto stocks softened and the group had little left on the upside.

A selection of gains by key stocks among nonferrous metals, aerospace issues, electronics and drugs was a firming influence.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .1 at 336.9 with industrials unchanged, rails off .5 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .72 at 910.83.

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed 563 persons on the nation's highways during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend, a record number for the holiday period.

The previous record of deaths in traffic accidents during the final summer holiday period was 557 set in 1963. Last year, there were 531 deaths.

Another 25 persons died in boating accidents during this year's holiday period and 45 persons drowned.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 500 and 600 persons would die in traffic accidents between 6 p. m. (local time) and midnight of Labor Day.

Water flowed three feet deep entirely across Key Biscayne, a resort and residential island off the mainland at Miami, and three barges torn loose from their moorings by the wind knocked out the island's only escape route, the Rickenbacker Causeway. Its harbor was reported "in shambles."

Key Biscayne residents had been warned to evacuate the island, but the tide there was not as high as expected and there was no report of casualties.

Canals interlacing Fort Lauderdale surged out of their banks and put several luxury apartment islands under water. On the seaside at Hollywood, the tide chewed out a portion of the east wall of the big luxury hotel, The Diplomat.

High water and toppled telephone poles blocked U.S. Highway 1 at Florida City, cutting the only land access route to the hard-hit Florida Keys. The Tamiami rail, crossing Florida from Miami to Naples on the Gulf Coast was laced with fallen trees.

The sea heaped sanddunes up on Highway A1A, which runs from Miami northward near the beach, and in some sections the road was broken by the tides.

At the height of the storm, two masked gunmen broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan E. Murray at Miami and threatened them for three hours with lighted cigarettes before fleeing with $5,000 in jewelry. Miami Beach police arrested three men trying to loot damaged stores.

Although the tides were the biggest since 1926, weather forecaster Gilbert Clark said Miami was "very lucky, at that."

The highest tides were in the north wall of the eye, which struck near Homestead 20 miles south of Miami. Had it crossed the coast a few miles farther north, Clark said, Miami's flood would have been as great as the devastating one of '26.

Water flowed 3 1/2 feet deep around the Miami Herald Building on the shore of Biscayne Bay, forcing the newspaper to postpone publication of its final edition.

The water was expected to recede rapidly with the fall of the east wind following passage of the hurricane.

At Miami, winds peaked at 105 miles an hour, well below the 135-mile blasts aimed at the city last year by Hurricane Cleo. The wall of the storm's eye bearing the worst of the winds passed 10 miles south of the city.

Forecaster Gordon Dunn of the Miami Weather Bureau said "We came off rather well, as hurricanes go."

Torrential rains fell for hours, adding to the deluge from the sea. Miami's total was expected to reach 10 inches.

South Florida's $2-million avocado crop was wiped out. "It was just ready for harvest," said grower George Cooper. "We couldn't have done a better job of getting it off the trees than Betsy did."

Near Palm Beach, the Panamanian cargo ship Amariyis was driven aground just offshore with 28 persons aboard, but the Coast Guard said the vessel was in no immediate danger.

In Nassau, Dupuch said there was no word on the fate of the large Bahamian islands of Abaco and Eleuthera, which were blacked out by power failure during Betsy's assault.

Dupuch called an emergency Cabinet meeting to set up relief operations. Physicians and police stood ready to fly to stricken areas as quickly as weather permitted. The U.S. government sent an offer to help.

Betsy hit dozens of big and small Florida cities on a curving, 300-mile stretch of coastline, but took its biggest toll in the metropolitan area of the lower east coast.

Then it roared across the swampy lower half of the state to the smaller communities on the west side, and toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Forecasters couldn't tell immediately what conditions the storm would meet in the gulf, how much longer it would rage the seas, or what other coastlines it might cross.

But they felt sure that it would emerge into the gulf as tough as ever — and over the warm subtropical waters which feed fury into a hurricane it could grow even more.

Once in the gulf, it must hit another coast, Dunn said, because "there is no other escape."

Tides rolling out from the 600-mile-wide hurricane boiled southward toward the north coast of Cuba and thousands of families were evacuated in fear of severe flooding.

Some 18,000 persons jammed into 143 Red Cross shelters on Florida's southern tip Tuesday night.

Pro and Con Arguments On Sales Tax Hike Issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ordered more than three million copies of "pro and con" arguments on a proposed one per cent sales tax increase printed today for statewide mailing to voters.

Ohio's constitution requires distribution of the arguments on the amendment proposal placed on Nov. 2 election ballots as Issue No. 1 by the Ohio Education Council, an organization of school groups.

The plan, rejected by the legislature, calls for an increase in the state's 3 per cent retail sales tax to 4 per cent to raise an extra $116 million annually for public schools.

The texts of the arguments: FOR THE PROPOSAL "For our children's sake, vote 'YES' on Issue 1, the much-heralded 'Plan for Educational Progress'."

It goes to the heart of the problem by requiring Ohio to invest more in elementary and high school education.

Last year, Ohio invested only $119 per pupil from state funds. That's $74 under the national average. Local property owners made up much of this vast difference, but — with education costs rising — they look to the state to pay its share.

The $17 per pupil increase in Ohio's 1965 Education Act is not enough to reverse the downward percentage trend in state support; would not assure each child of his educational birthright.

As the 6th wealthiest state, we can't expect to attract much industry while neighboring states devote far more to education.

Will Ohio provide funds urgently needed to expand vocational training?

Will we supply child guidance counselors many children desperately need in this pressure-packed age?

Will we compete for qualified teachers by really narrowing the gap between Ohio's and nearby salary levels?

Will we provide more special classes for handicapped children? More help to districts blessed with many children but shorted in tax duplicates?

You answer "YES" to all these questions by voting for Issue 1.

It provides another $116 million annually for school districts.

Necessary funds come from a penny sales tax increase, Ohio's first tax boost for education in 31 years. With the food-drug exemptions, the Thatcher report shows it's easier on most of us than property taxes.

Governor Rhodes and Democratic leaders agree on the need for more state aid for education.

PTA, educational associations, and many church, labor, business and civic groups enthusiastically endorse Issue 1.

Passing Issue 1 will give our children and our state brighter tomorrows.

Remember—their future will be in your hands November 2nd!

AGAINST THE PROPOSAL

Issue 1: —Increases Sales Tax Payments by More than One-Third.

The one penny tax would double. The two penny tax would become three, and so on. A new home would cost $100 more—a new car $30 or more.

Those least able to pay this tax would pay most heavily. Lower income families spend a larger portion of earnings on taxable commodities.

—Requires Future Expenditures of an Unknown Amount.

Issue 1 contains built-in increases in future costs over which there is no control. The amount of such increases is unknown. No assurance exists that the revenue produced by the proposed tax increase will meet this cost. Other new taxes could be required.

—Hurts the Teacher — the Poorer School Districts — the Children from Low Income Families.

The law enacted by the General Assembly which Issue 1 would repeal provides a higher minimum scale of teachers' salaries, and contains a guarantee raise for teachers and other employees not in Issue 1.

Issue 1 gives smaller proportionate benefits to poorer school districts.

Issue 1 provisions for "culturally deprived" students includes no definite program and ignores the massive federal aid for children of low income families. The law which Issue 1 would repeal plans for full use of federal aid.

—Discourages legislative consideration upon which continued educational progress depends.

The General Assembly after lengthy consideration rejected Issue 1, and enacted a better law supporting extensive improvements in education which Issue 1 would repeal. It also created a commission to study school needs and a commission to study the taxes supporting state services.

The assembly has continually increased state public school support. Repudiation of the judgment of the General Assembly would tend to discourage the assembly's continued consideration of school improvement upon which the continued progress of our schools must in the long run depend.

India . . .

The broadcast added that Indian air force planes attacked the Pakistani navy ships and the naval guns shot down some of the planes. It said the Pakistani ships suffered no losses.

India's other invasion drive, in the Lahore-Amritsar area 500 miles northeast of Barmer, "continued to make progress" despite Pakistani counterattacks which were "being repulsed with heavy losses to the Pakistanis," the Indian announcement claimed.

Again there was a conflicting report from the Pakistani side. A spokesman in Rawalpindi said the Indian offensive has been bogged down for the past 24 hours.

Air raid sirens sounded at 2:45 a. m. in New Delhi and waited for 10 minutes, but officials said the Indian air force had repelled an air attack on the capital. A Defense Ministry spokesman said one Pakistani plane, an American-made C130 transport, went down in flames near New Delhi's Palam International Airport.

New Delhi had expected a raid in reprisal for an Indian air raid Tuesday against the airport at Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital. The Defense Ministry spokesman said no damage was sustained in New Delhi and made no mention of Indian losses in the air clash.

Clearing the Air

Not long ago an article by former presidential adviser Arthur Schlesinger Jr. contended that the late President Kennedy hadn't really wanted Lyndon Johnson as his running mate in the 1960 U. S. presidential election, that he thought the Texan would turn down the offer.

This ruffled the feelings of President Johnson. He said Mr. Kennedy told him at the time he wanted him to run for vice president because he was the best man for the job.

Now Sen. Bobby Kennedy, the brother of the late president, has entered the lists. In a speech the other day he said Mr. Johnson had been picked because he was considered the man best suited to succeed if anything happened to the president.

Sen. Kennedy's statement will make President Johnson very pleased, and it may even put "Bobby" back into the White House inner circle.

Some may also say this proves the old adage that "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

German Election Seesaw

By John Chamberlain

MANNHEIM, West Germany — As Bob Hope says, one never leaves home. Coming to Germany, one finds one's self assailed by the slogans of two political parties that, like American Republicans and Democrats, stand for identical things. "Unsere Sicherheit" — translated as "our security" — shout the posters of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Party. "Sicher ist sicher" or "sure is sure" — say the advertisements of the opposition, the Social Democratic Party whose candidate for government leader is Willy Brandt, the Mayor of West Berlin.

It's "me, too" and "I can do it better than you" all over again. Well, the word seems to be going that way: there are no ideologies any more. In England, the Labor Party has not yet dared press for the renationalization of steel. In Germany, Willy Brandt's socialists have abandoned the old Marxist slogans calling for nationalization of industry. Returning the compliment of imitation, both the British conservatives and the German Christian Democrats have shown no real disposition to dismantle the welfare — or security — state.

So what is it all about, this German election that will be fought out until election day of September 19? The Vollraths, 28-year-old Wiebke and thirty-two-year-old Robert, who stayed with our family in America for six months last year, put it in atmospheric terms. "The Christian Democrats have been in too long," says Wiebke, "but the Social Democrats, if they got in, might let the labor unions have higher wages, which would mean more inflation." She and Robert laugh at the way the two parties steal each other's slogans. But nuances are still important, and there is the lingering fear that the socialists' "sicher ist sicher," or "sure is sure," would make a good education in Germany just a little less advantageous than it now is. That wouldn't be "sicher" for the Vollraths.

Robert is a chemist who has put in ten years of study at his profession. He capped his graduate school experience with two years on a fellowship in the United States. His salary in marks comes to about five hundred dollars a month in American terms. Five hundred in the Rhineland buys a little more than it would in the United States. He isn't suffering, although the money melts away just as it did in America. What really bothers the Vollraths is the ten-year span that was lost to earning because schooling had first to be completed. Robert, a qualified Herr Doktor by his degrees, is just getting started in industry. He and Wiebke have one child, a four-month-old girl named Anke.

The difference between Robert's salary and the pay which many who have had no particular schooling draw each month is about a hundred dollars. It is a difference that is worth having, but comparatively speaking it doesn't amount to much when you consider the ten years of study during which the Vollraths could do no saving. A home of their own is far away, for the cost of land in crowded West Germany would make it prohibitive until Anke is too old to enjoy a backyard.

"The Social Democrats," says Wiebke, "talk about education. But they make it less and less worth the bother of it."

So the difference between the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats, if you boil it down in terms of one young couple's experience, is to be measured in terms of incentives. Willy Brandt's party is no longer Marxist. Like the Christian Democrats, the Social Democrats believe in letting businesses do their own planning. But the fear of young men who have been trained for responsible jobs in industry is that, after a few more years of leveling, the game won't be worth the candle.

Ludwig Erhard, as the main architect of the now famous "German miracle," has an edge on Willy Brandt in popularity polls. But the bickering among Christian Democrats has been intense, and Konrad Adenauer, "der alte" who was Chancellor before Erhard for fourteen years, never made any bones about his feeling that Erhard, an economist, would not make a good leader. Adenauer is now scrambling to repair the damage he has done; the posters quote him as saying that his life work for Germany's peace, freedom and security is in Erhard's hands as his anointed follower.

But the repair work may have come too late. Willy Brandt is given a good chance of winning.

The Business World

By BEN CHESTER
(For Sam Dawson)

DEMOREST, Ga. (AP) — Henry Ford put America on wheels with the automobile, but in this small north Georgia town, the word is still "get a horse."

It is here that the production of saddletrees, or frames, continues as an art handed down for generations.

The Edward Flor Co., which says it is the largest firm of its type in the world, has been operating 82 years. It reports that business is better than ever.

From rough pine and poplar lumber, 53 skilled craftsmen in a tin-roofed building turn out 1, 200 to 1,400 ready-for-leather saddle frames every week, in any style, shape or size a horse-man wants.

The operation is mostly wood, glue and nails, and with bandsaws and rough files.

Foreman Lester Palmer, who has been with the company 26 years, says the business has changed little since it began in 1883.

"I went to work there in 1939," Palmer said. "I started in the same job my father had, and he worked with the company about 50 years."

"We used an old undershot water wheel to pull two lines of machinery. When the old place burned down, there was just one electric motor used, and it ran a drill press."

"We tried to modernize once or twice, but it didn't seem to work out," Palmer said. "We just left things the way they are."

In the present plant, there is only the hum of bandsaws and an electric drill or two to indicate any modernization.

There are stacks of boards, piles of blocks and sawdust and shavings on the floor. There are wooden kegs with odd-shaped horns which go on the saddletrees: oval horns for cattle roping, big, round, shiny ones for expensive Mexican-style saddles, high horns for trick riders.

The rough saddletrees are shipped to saddlemakers across the country. Many wind up in custom saddle shops and in the mail order trade.

Saddlemakers pay about $3 to $4 for the company's model for children and about $18 for a standard man-size roping model hull, which is much larger and stronger.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

"There has been a real revolution in the world of men's toiletries," says William Eckert, Cleveland Toilet Goods Association president. It certainly sounds revolting.

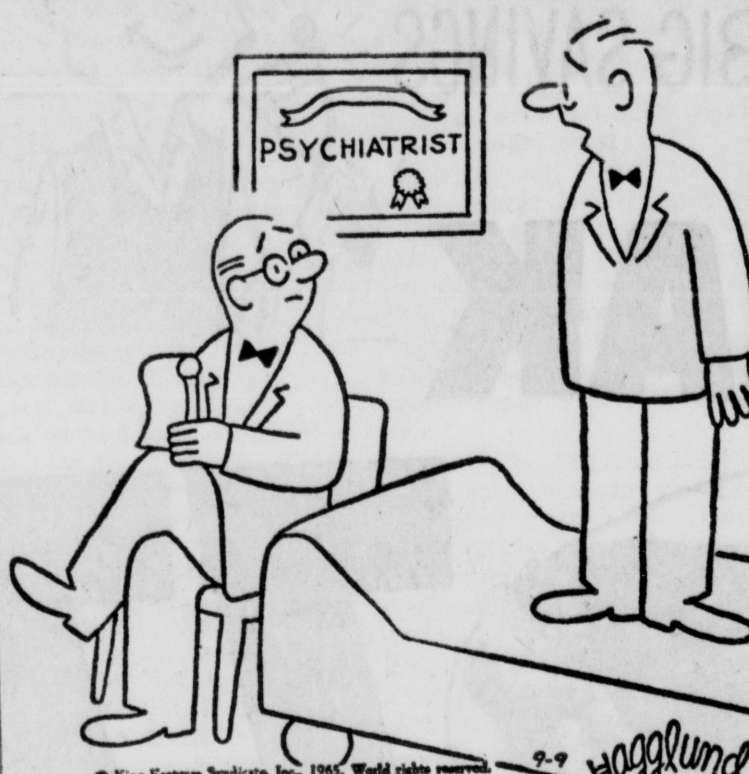

"Men wish to remain just as young and attractive looking as women," says Eckert. Fat chance.

Eckert says toilet goods makers are putting more and more emphasis on men's lines. Well, it's difficult to see how a man can remain young and attractive looking if they keep putting more and more emphasis on his lines.

Eckert predicts there will be many skin care treatments for men in the next few years. Well, there will always be men who want to save their skin.

"The more affluent men will have their hair colored by a barber," says Eckert. Otherwise, dare-it-yourself.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I can't lie down... I keep hearing the national anthem."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

How quickly after exposure can it be told if a person has German measles?

A new blood test has recently been devised that can tell within 24 hours if anyone has acquired German measles. The United States Public Health Service is enthusiastic about this new test because it may show the way for a vaccine against the disease.

German measles is in itself a mild disease. But when it occurs during the first three months of pregnancy it may produce birth defects in the newborn infant. A vaccine against German measles would be a gigantic advance in medicine.

Are infected tonsils and sinuses still considered a focus of infection that produces arthritis?

The focus of infection theory is still considered by some physicians to be important. Conditions like arthritis, colitis and infections of the bladder may be related to disease of the tonsils, sinuses and teeth. Whether or not there is a relationship between the two does not alter the fact that all known infections should be eliminated under doctor's care.

Can acne be caused by nervousness?

Nervous people tend to pick on their faces during periods of anxiety. The protective layers of the skin are thus peeled off and make it more susceptible for infection. But this is not really the cause of acne.

The acne of young people is caused by an excess secretion of the oil (sebaceous) gland of the skin. Acne is one of the many conditions that has a close physical and psychological relationship.

Ability To Say 'No' Is Vital

NEW YORK (AP) — Man's ability to survive today depends on his ability to say no.

There are so many things clutching at a man's mind, time and pocketbook that he has to adopt a negative attitude as a matter of self-defense. If he can't learn to say no, the piranhas of civilization will eat him alive.

To endure, a fellow must learn to turn a deaf ear to enticing suggestions. For example, here are a few commonplace invitations that can lead only to confusion, bankruptcy, regret or disaster:

"It is only a small, friendly game, and we'll put a limit on the size of the bets. You'll be home before midnight. I promise you."

"But supposing I am the one to go first, Henry. Would you want to marry again, supposing you met someone who was really attractive? Now tell me the truth."

"Let me pick up the tickets for the show, and you handle the dinner tab for the bunch. Okay?"

"Try one of these. It's a recipe I made up myself. You mix a quart of gin, a quart of creme de menthe, a pound of brown sugar, three ounces of prune juice and —"

"I don't care how many fillings you've got, Henry, anybody can crack walnuts with his teeth. There's a trick to it—it's all a matter of leverage. Open your mouth, put the walnut right there, and —"

"We'd appreciate it very much if you'd accept the chairmanship of our PTA committee on readership problems in the sixth grade. It will take only a few minutes of your time each month."

"In recognition of your standing as a leader in the community, we are letting you in on the ground floor of a business opportunity that comes only once in a lifetime."

"Dad, these kids don't believe me when I tell them you used to throw 50 yard passes in high school. Here's our football. Show 'em how easy it is."

"Don't let it floor you just because I'm the boss and this is my idea, Henry. If you don't think it is sound, speak right up and say so."

"Anybody can dance the rug. Come on, step out on the dance. I'll show you."

"Buy now, pay at your leisure."

"Be a sport, Dad. If you make the down payment, I'll save up and meet all the installments. Cross my heart I will."

"What if you are on a diet? One little piece of chocolate cake won't hurt you."

"The price may seem a bit high for a house this old, but we can practically guarantee you against loss. Confidentially, we hear the state plans to build a six-lane highway right through this land."

"What if the tax people have challenged your 1962 income return. Don't let 'em bluff you. Threaten to take them into court. They'll back down."

Yes, it's the invitations a man rejects that add years to his peace of mind.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GIVING A NEW TWIST to the time honored problem of how boy meets girl is a major concern of every playwright who favors comedy, and Neil Simon, fabulously successful author of "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple," is no exception.

Well, here's how Playwright Simon met his own charming wife, Joan. The scene was a Pennsylvania summer resort named Taimiment, where young Mr. Simon was writing special material to keep the paying guests amused in the evenings.

The year was 1953, and Simon, incidentally, was performing something of the same chore that Danny Kaye and Sylvia Fine (later Mrs. Kaye) had accomplished a decade earlier. Neil Simon saw his Joan for the first time munching a sandwich, and fell in love at sight. Too shy and bemused to introduce himself, he brushed by her as casually as possible, and murmured, "What lovely earlobes!"

And some eight weeks later they were married.

A substitute teacher in a downtown public school surveyed her class the first morning she was assigned a job and sent a hurry call for the principal. "HELP!" she demanded. "They're all here!"

THE NATIONAL GAME: "One of the chief duties of the genuine baseball fan is to engage in arguments with the man behind him."—Robert Benchley. "I've found that you don't need to wear a necktie if you can hit."—Champ Batters Ted Williams.

"Strike? Ball? It ain't NOTHING till I call it."—Umpire Bill Klem.

TREMBLECHIN! YOU WERE IN CHARGE OF MISPELLING!! HOW COULD YOU LET THIS HAPPEN? REMEMBER ME SAYING WATCH OUT FOR ERRORS?!

Clearing the Air

Not long ago an article by former presidential adviser Arthur Schlesinger Jr. contended that the late President Kennedy hadn't really wanted Lyndon Johnson as his running mate in the 1960 U. S. presidential election, that he thought the Texan would turn down the offer.

This ruffled the feelings of President Johnson. He said Mr. Kennedy told him at the time he wanted him to run for vice president because he was the best man for the job.

Now Sen. Bobby Kennedy, the brother of the late president, has entered the lists. In a speech the other day he said Mr. Johnson had been picked because he was considered the man best suited to succeed if anything happened to the president.

Sen. Kennedy's statement will make President Johnson very pleased, and it may even put "Bobby" back into the White House inner circle.

Some may also say this proves the old adage that "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

German Election Seesaw

By John Chamberlain

MANNHEIM, West Germany — As Bob Hope says, one never leaves home. Coming to Germany, one finds one's self assailed by the slogans of two political parties that, like American Republicans and Democrats, stand for identical things. "Unsere Sicherheit" — translated as "our security" — shout the posters of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Party. "Sicher ist sicher" or "sure is sure" — say the advertisements of the opposition, the Social Democratic Party whose candidate for government leader is Willy Brandt, the Mayor of West Berlin.

It's "me, too" and "I can do it better than you" all over again. Well, the world seems to be going that way: there are no ideologies any more. In England, the Labor Party has not yet dared press for the renationalization of steel. In Germany, Willy Brandt's socialists have abandoned the old Marxist slogans calling for nationalization of industry. Returning the compliment of imitation, both the British conservatives and the German Christian Democrats have shown no real disposition to dismantle the welfare — or security — state.

So what is it all about, this German election that will be fought out until election day of September 19? The Völkische, 28-year-old Wiebke and thirty-two-year-old Robert, who stayed with our family in America for six months last year, put it in atmospheric terms. "The Christian Democrats have been in too long," says Wiebke, "but the Social Democrats, if they got in, might let the labor unions have higher wages, which would mean more inflation." She and Robert laugh at the way the two parties steal each other's slogans. But nuances are still important, and there is the lingering fear that the socialists' "sicher ist sicher," or "sure is sure," would make a good education in Germany just a little less advantageous than it now is. That wouldn't be "sicher" for the Völkische.

Robert is a chemist who has put in ten years of study at his profession. He capped his graduate school experience with two years on a fellowship in the United States. His salary in marks comes to about five hundred dollars a month in American terms. Five hundred in the Rhineland buys a little more than it would in the United States. He isn't suffering, although the money melts away just as it did in America. What really bothers the Völkische is the ten-year span that was lost to earning because schooling had first to be completed. Robert, a qualified Herr Doktor by his degrees, is just getting started in industry. He and Wiebke have one child, a four-month-old girl named Anke.

The difference between Robert's salary and the pay which many who have had no particular schooling draw each month is about a hundred dollars. It is a difference that is worth having, but comparatively speaking it doesn't amount to much when you consider the ten years of study during which the Völkische could do no saving. A home of their own is far away, for the cost of land in crowded West Germany would make it prohibitive until Anke is too old to enjoy a backyard.

"The Social Democrats," says Wiebke, "talk about education. But they make it less and less worth the bother of it."

So the difference between its Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats, if you boil it down in terms of one young couple's experience, is to be measured in terms of incentives. Willy Brandt's party is no longer Marxist. Like the Christian Democrats, the Social Democrats believe in letting businesses do their own planning. But the fear of young men who have been trained for responsible jobs in industry is that, after a few more years of leveling, the game won't be worth the candle.

Ludwig Erhard, as the main architect of the now famous "German miracle," has an edge on Willy Brandt in popularity polls. But the bickering among Christian Democrats has been intense, and Konrad Adenauer, "der alte" who was Chancellor before Erhard for fourteen years, never made any bones about his feeling that Erhard, an economist, would not make a good leader. Adenauer is now scrambling to repair the damage he has done; the posters quote him as saying that his life work for Germany's peace, freedom and security is in Erhard's hands as his anointed follower.

But the repair work may have come too late. Willy Brandt is given a good chance of winning.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

How quickly after exposure can it be told if a person has German measles?

A new blood test has recently been devised that can tell within 24 hours if anyone has acquired German measles. The United States Public Health Service is enthusiastic about this new test because it may show the way for a vaccine against the disease.

German measles is in itself a mild disease. But when it occurs during the first three months of pregnancy it may produce birth defects in the newborn infant. A vaccine against German measles would be a gigantic advance in medicine.

Are infected tonsils and sinuses still considered a focus of infection that produces arthritis?

The focus of infection theory is still considered by some physicians to be important. Conditions like arthritis, colitis and infections of the bladder may be related to disease of the tonsils, sinuses and teeth. Whether or not there is a relationship between the two does not alter the fact that all known infections should be eliminated under doctor's care.

Can acne be caused by nervousness?

Nervous people tend to pick on their faces during periods of anxiety. The protective layers of the skin are thus peeled off and make it more susceptible for infection. But this is not really the cause of acne.

The acne of young people is caused by an excess secretion of the oil (sebaceous) gland of the skin. Acne is one of the many conditions that has a close physical and psychological relationship.

Ability To Say 'No' Is Vital

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Man's ability to survive today depends on his ability to say no.

There are so many things clutching at a man's mind, time and pocketbook that he has to adopt a negative attitude as a matter of self-defense. If he can't learn to say no, the piranhas of civilization will eat him alive.

To endure, a fellow must learn to turn a deaf ear to enticing suggestions. For example, here are a few commonplace invitations that can lead only to confusion, bankruptcy, regret or disaster:

"It is only a small, friendly game, and we'll put a limit on the size of the bets. You'll be home before midnight, I promise you."

"But supposing I am the one to go first, Henry. Would you want to marry again, supposing you met someone who was really attractive? Now tell me the truth."

"Let me pick up the tickets for the show, and you handle the dinner tab for the bunch. Okay?"

"Try one of these. It's a recipe I made up myself. You mix a quart of gin, a quart of creme de menthe, a pound of brown sugar, three ounces of prune juice and —"

"I don't care how many fillings you've got, Henry, anybody can crack walnuts with his teeth. There's a trick to it — it's all a matter of leverage. Open your mouth, put the walnut right there, and —"

"We'd appreciate it very much if you'd accept the chairmanship of our PTA committee on readership problems in the sixth grade. It will take only a few minutes of your time each month."

"In recognition of your standing as a leader in the community, we are letting you in on the ground floor of a business opportunity that comes only once in a lifetime."

"Dad, these kids don't believe me when I tell them you used to throw 50 yard passes in high school. Here's our football. Show 'em how easy it is."

"Don't let it floor you just because I'm the boss and this is my idea, Henry. If you don't think it is sound, speak right up and say so."

"Anybody can dance the tango. Come on, step out on the dance floor. I'll show you."

"Buy now, pay at your leisure."

"Be a sport, Dad. If you make the down payment, I'll save up and meet all the installments. Cross my heart I will."

"What if you are on a diet? One little piece of chocolate cake won't hurt you."

"The price may seem a bit high for a house this old, but we can practically guarantee you against loss. Confidentially, we hear the state plans to build a six-lane highway right through this land."

"What if the tax people have challenged your 1962 income return. Don't let 'em bluff you. Threaten to take them into court. They'll back down."

Yes, it's the invitations a man rejects that add years to his peace of mind.

GIVING A NEW TWIST to the time honored problem of how boy meets girl is a major concern of every playwright who favors comedy, and Neil Simon, fabulously successful author of "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple," is no exception.

Well, here's how Playwright Simon met his own charming wife, Joan. The scene was a Pennsylvania summer resort named Taimint, where young Mr. Simon was writing special material to keep the paying guests amused in the evenings. The year was 1953, and Simon, incidentally, was performing something of the same chore that Danny Kaye and Sylvia Fine (later Mrs. Kaye) had accomplished a decade earlier. Neil Simon saw his Joan for the first time munching a sandwich, and fell in love at sight. Too shy and bemused to introduce himself, he brushed her as casually as possible, and murmured, "What lovely earlobes!" And some eight weeks later they were married.

A substitute teacher in a downtown public school surveyed her class the first morning she was assigned a job and sent a hurry call for the principal. "HELP!" she demanded. "They're all here!"

The Business World

By BEN CHESTER
(For Sam Dawson)

DEMOREST, Ga. (AP) — Henry Ford put America on wheels with the automobile, but in this small north Georgia town, the word is still "get a horse."

It is here that the production of saddletrees, or frames, continues as an art handed down for generations.

The Edward Flor Co., which says it is the largest firm of its type in the world, has been operating 82 years. It reports that business is better than ever.

From rough pine and poplar lumber, 53 skilled craftsmen in a tin-roofed building turn out 1, 200 to 1,400 ready-for-leather saddle frames every week, in any style, shape or size a horse-man wants.

The operation is mostly wood, glue and nails, and with bandsaws and rough files.

Foreman Lester Palmer, who has been with the company 26 years, says the business has changed little since it began in 1883.

"I went to work there in 1939," Palmer said. "I started in the same job my father had, and he worked with the company about 50 years."

"We used an old undershot water wheel to pull two lines of machinery. When the old place burned down, there was just one electric motor used, and it ran a drill press."

"We tried to modernize once or twice, but it didn't seem to work out," Palmer said. "We just left things the way they are."

In the present plant, there is only the hum of bandsaws and an electric drill or two to indicate any modernization.

There are stacks of boards, piles of blocks and sawdust and shavings on the floor. There are wooden kegs with odd-shaped horns which go on the saddletrees: oval horns for cattle roping, big, round, shiny ones for expensive Mexican-style saddles, high horns for trick riders.

The rough saddletrees are shipped to saddlemakers across the country. Many wind up in custom saddle shops and in the mail order trade.

Saddlemakers pay about $3 to $4 for the company's model for children and about $18 for a standard man-size roping model hull, which is much larger and stronger.

"There has been a real revolution in the world of men's toiletries," says William Eckert, Cleveland Toilet Goods Association president. It certainly sounds revolting.

"Men wish to remain just as young and attractive looking as women," says Eckert. Fat chance.

Eckert says toilet goods makers are putting more and more emphasis on men's lines. Well, it's difficult to see how a man can remain young and attractive looking if they keep putting more and more emphasis on his lines.

Eckert predicts there will be many skin care treatments for men in the next few years. Well, there will always be men who want to save their skin.

"The more affluent men will have their hair colored by a barber," says Eckert. Otherwise, dare-it-yourself.

Grandfather of 18 Enters College at Age of Just 80

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "If I live until 1972, I think I can get a college degree," laughed Edward S. Babcox, 80, a freshman at the University of Akron.

Though he often laughs at himself, learning is not a laughing matter to Babcox, who has wanted to go to college since his high school days.

Instead, he made plans to get married and then helped support his family when his father died. Then there were four children. He now has 18 grandchildren, one of whom asked in awe when she found out her grandfather was going back to school, "You mean you are going to take examinations?"

Babcox did finish high school, and later became advertising manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. He left in 1920 and bought a trade journal. It's known as Babcox Business Publications, publishes seven magazines a year and is operated by his sons. Babcox went into semi-retirement eight years ago.

A widower for four years, Babcox understands what widowed persons mean when they say adjustment is difficult. It took a daughter-in-law's sense of humor to prod him into action again.

"Why don't you go over to the university," she asked. "they have lots of things for old fossils like you!"

He did, and it has almost been his second home. The only difficulty is that he always felt exceptionally conscious of the fact that he isn't a college graduate.

"My wife was," he said. "Our children and their mates are, and my oldest grandson was just graduated from Stanford. They have all been trying to educate me for years. But they weren't making much progress. So I decided to take things in my own hands."

When he'll have time to study is anybody's guess, with all his other activities. His present consuming interest is a Chinese child he adopted through Foster Parent's Plan.

His life is intertwined with Akron's civic growth. He founded the Akron Advertising Club, was president of the Summer Home for the Aged for 12 years and is a life member of the board. He has been president and chairman of practically every office in the First Congregational Church.

September should be an eventful month for Babcox. His freshman orientation class is the 24th his 81st birthday the 25th and classes will begin on the 27th.

Husband To 'Stick by' Woman Held for Slaying

CLEVELAND (AP) — Robert W. Colby stood in the parking lot of the Shaker Heights police station Tuesday and said, "Naturally I'll stick by her."

Inside, his wife Mariann had just been bound over to the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury on a charge of first degree murder in the death of a neighbor boy.

The 40-year-old Shaker Heights housewife is charged with the fatal shooting Aug. 24 of John Cremer Young Jr. She has pleaded innocent and, in a statement to detectives, has said the shooting was accidental. Shaker Heights Municipal Judge John A. Corlett, during a 1½ hour preliminary hearing Tuesday, denied attempts to reduce the charge to a lesser one and to free Mrs. Colby on bond.

Her attorney, Gerald S. Gold, said there "is not a scintilla of evidence" to support the first degree charge. He said the state failed to show "probable cause" for a case of premeditated murder.

Mrs. Colby was returned to Cuyahoga County Jail after the hearing. The grand jury probably will get the case later this month.

In a first signed statement to police, Mrs. Colby said her 9-year-old son, Dane accidentally pulled the trigger of an old .32-caliber, five - shot revolver, which killed the boy. In a second statement, she said the gun accidentally fired while she was carrying a pile of laundry.

"She never told me about it (the gun) or where she got it," said Colby, a space engineer.

When detectives first questioned Dane, they described him as being in a sort of "fantasy land," Colby said Tuesday.

"One thing I want to get straight. My son is a slow learner and he is not retarded. He is going into the second grade which proves that he can get along in school."

Louis Orkin, Shaker Heights prosecutor, asked these questions Tuesday in summing up the state's case:

Why was Mrs. Colby carrying a loaded gun?

Why was her finger on the trigger?

Why was the gun concealed in a pile of clothes?

Why did she not call for someone to help after Cremer was shot?

Why did she try to hide the body and the weapon?

Why did she place the blame on her son and then later say

SMOKING AND MOUTH CANCER

Q. Can cancer occur in the same location twice? My question concerns my father, a heavy smoker, who has apparently been cured of cancer of the mouth.

A. Yes, a second cancer can develop in the mouth. It's always a bit hazardous to refer to cancer "cures." However, assuming that a cure has taken place, the chances of recurrence of cancer of the mouth is considerably greater if smoking is continued than if the subject quits smoking. The increased risk of cancer recurrence was clearly shown in a group of cancer patients studied by University of Louisville doctors.

20/20 VISION

Q. What do doctors mean when they say you have 20/20 vision?

A. This is a way of saying that you have normal vision. Visual acuity, or the ability to see clearly, is expressed as a fraction. The top number is the distance the person is placed from the test chart. The bottom number is the lowest line on the test chart that can be read by a person with normal vision. A person whose vision is 20/40 sees at 20 feet what a normal person sees at 40 feet. This doesn't mean that such a person is half blind. Half sight occurs when vision drops to 20/100.

His life is intertwined with Akron's civic growth. He founded the Akron Advertising Club, was president of the Sumner Home for the Aged for 12 years and is a life member of the board. He has been president and chairman of practically every office in the First Congregational Church.

September should be an eventful month for Babcox. His freshman orientation class is the 24th his 81st birthday the 25th and classes will begin on the 27th.

SMOKING AND MOUTH CANCER

Q. Can cancer occur in the same location twice? My question concerns my father, a heavy smoker, who has apparently been cured of cancer of the mouth.

A. Yes, a second cancer can develop in the mouth. It's always a bit hazardous to refer to cancer "cures." However, assuming that a cure has taken place, the chances of recurrence of cancer of the mouth is considerably greater if smoking is continued than if the subject quits smoking. The increased risk of cancer recurrence was clearly shown in a group of cancer patients studied by University of Louisville doctors.

20/20 VISION

Q. What do doctors mean when they say you have 20/20 vision?

A. This is a way of saying that you have normal vision. Visual acuity, or the ability to see clearly, is expressed as a fraction. The top number is the distance the person is placed from the test chart. The bottom number is the lowest line on the test chart that can be read by a person with normal vision. A person whose vision is 20/40 sees at 20 feet what a normal person sees at 40 feet. This doesn't mean that such a person is half blind. Half sight occurs when vision drops to 20/100.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARD — Marie Adkins (left) the first recipient of a revolving scholarship fund for children who are wards of the county, discusses her plans with Mrs. Glenn McCoy (center) and Mrs. G. A. Wyllie. Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Wyllie are officers of the Child Conservation League, the organization that initiated the fund.

CCL Initiates Program For Scholarship Fund

The Child Conservation League has initiated a program to provide a revolving scholarship fund for youngsters who are wards of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Department.

The first scholarship grant — actually a loan — has been made to Marie Adkins, a 1965 graduate of Logan Elm High School. Miss Adkins has lived at the Children's Home since she was 13. Her father died when she was 5 years old and her mother when she was 10.

For three years she lived with relatives in Columbus. She then became a ward of the county.

An honor roll student at Logan Elm, she has been accepted at Columbus Business University. The loan from the Child Conservation League has made it possible for her to undertake a 12-month secretarial course.

The Child Conservation League is seeking the assistance of other Pickaway County civic organizations in the project. The program is presently being administered with the assistance of the child welfare board.

In the future, the fund will be administered by trustees appointed from contributing organizations.

The need for such a fund has been realized for some time. From time to time, children in care of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Department are capable of doing further study beyond high school.

But at the age of 18, all maintenance board, medical and clothing expenses, are terminated.

Taken from an environment of neglect, the youngsters are suddenly "on their own", although legally in custody of the welfare board until the age of 21 is reached.

In the opinion of the welfare board, a little extra support for these young people at this time will give them the boost to become independent, self-supporting citizens.

The welfare board this year is continuing casework service to those children over 18. Special foster homes that can help with the transition will be provided.

Miss Adkins, for instance, is staying at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Timothy Moore in Columbus. Mrs. Moore is the former Patty Hamman of Williamsport.

She will continue to live with the Moores while attending Columbus Business University.

President of the Child Conservation League this year is Mrs. Glenn McCoy. Mrs. G. A. Wyllie is the projects chairman.

Auto Graveyards in Nation Are Scars of the Motor Age

By MICHAEL REMAS
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

Drive almost anywhere in the nation today and you'll find a "bumper crop" of automobiles — not only on the highway, but along it. These are the scars of the auto age.

The number of roadside junkyards and wrecker lots — perhaps better known as automobile graveyards — is increasing as fast as the number of cars on our highways.

Reports from the scrap industry and federal government indicate that about 17,000 of these eyesores cover thousands of acres along highways across the nation.

Detroit car industry statisticians report that 7.5 million cars now are junked annually. These, plus booming car production (9 million a year now) and a falling market for car scrap because of technological improvements in the steel industry account for a blight problem that even has brought concern to President Johnson.

The President this summer submitted legislation to Congress to help states eliminate junkyards and preserve the natural beauty of the countryside. Car graveyards also were among conditions for which advice was sought from 1,000 persons called to Washington for the President's Conference on Natural Beauty last May.

Some states and communities already have ordinances to regulate car junkyards by moving them farther from highway

'Malicious People' Damage Home Badly

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Marvin Shapiro was heart sick when he saw what vandals had done to his three-story brick rowhouse in west Baltimore.

The basement was flooded. Electrical connections were torn out. Molding was stripped from the walls. Window screens were slashed. And filth was smeared on the walls of the living room, dining room and bedrooms.

"Sick, malicious people" was the way Shapiro described those who had forced their way into the house. The dwelling, which rents for $22 a week, had just been redecorated and locked by his agent after a routine inspection.

Citizen Teams Patrol Illegal Use of Water

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) The Radio Emergency Association Citizen Team, formed last May to help police combat crime in the streets, is now on the lookout for illegal users of water.

The 48 members cruise the streets in private, radio-equipped cars and contact police if criminal activity is spotted. Now the group says it will radio police if they spot illegal water users. Lawn and shrub watering, car washing and some other uses of water have been banned in the city due to drought.

right of ways or making them erect high fences to hide car skeletons.

Civic-minded individuals, state roadside councils and motor clubs declare that car junkyards repel tourists and new industries from coming to their states. Homeowners say that car junk piles decrease property value, attract rats, and can be injurious to children.

On the defense are the auto wrecker associations, the scrap industry, and their lobbyists.

They state they also are for beautification, but that strict legislation could destroy the scrap industry, vital to other industries and a must in wartime.

Spokesman for the scrapmen is the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., which declares its processors eliminate old cars by preparing them for steel mills. It also seeks to differentiate between its more than 1,200 members and what it calls ordinary junk dealers.

The institute calls the problem one of conservation. It proposes finding ways of economically disposing of and yet conserving scrap, that the states offer trees and shrubs to screen junkyards, and that laws be tightened on casual collectors of cars.

The problem then is regulating these eyesores to provide full benefit of the billions spent on highways without legislating the scrapmen out of business.

However, the scars of the car age spread past the roadside. Abandoned cars on streets, in empty lots, and in backyards plague many municipalities. Rising car junkpiles have forced many large cities to enter the scrap business.

They must tow away the unwanted cars, not only to avoid safety hazards to motorists, but also to playing children.

Philadelphia has some 60 men and 14 trucks towing old cars from streets. They picked up 10,520 cars in 1964. Chicago towed 22,000 unwanted cars last year and has set aside a huge field where folks can leave them.

Pittsburgh sells some of its old junkers at auctions; Boston levels $100 to $500 fine and one to three months drivers' license suspensions on "nyone abandoning a car on property not his own; New York City reports that people abandon cars faster than they can be towed off — 14,000 in 1964.

The towing and stowing cost our cities millions of dollars, too high a price for worthless autos. In return, they are lucky to get from $2.50 to $5 from scrap processors who hesitate to take them at all. Many won't take an old car free.

Yet the problem is bound to get worse before it gets better. With new car production at record levels and cars being junked after 6 to 10 years of use it may not be too long before our communities are surrounded by car hulks.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 8, the 251st day of 1965. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam, now New York, to the English.

On this date In 1760, Wisconsin became English territory. It had been controlled by France.

In 1841, the Bohemian composer, Anton Dvorak, was born.

In 1935, Sen. Huey Long of Louisiana was assassinated in the Capitol at Baton Rouge by Dr. Carl Weiss who was killed on the spot by state police.

In 1900, more than 6,000 persons were lost when a hurricane, floods and tidal wave hit the Galveston, Tex., area.

Ten years ago — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reached Moscow on a Soviet bid to confer on normalizing relations between the two nations.

Five years ago — The nation was discussing the injection of the religious issue in the presidential campaign through a statement by spokesman for the National Council of Citizens for Religious Freedom.

One year ago — Uruguay broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba, leaving Mexico and Canada the only Western Hemisphere nations recognizing the Castro government.

Next Reapportionment Move Not in Sight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An Ohio federal court, in whose hands the embattled reapportionment issue rests, has given no indication when it will act.

Failure of last-minute efforts by the Ohio Legislature to agree on a new House apportionment formula before it adjourned Tuesday left the state without any plan which would conform to U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" decisions.

The three-judge federal court which last Oct. 15 struck down a section of Ohio's Constitution requiring that each county have at least one representative had retained jurisdiction in the case.

Even before the legislature adjourned, that panel was asked to set a hearing to begin formulating a new apportionment plan.

There is no indication when—or how—the court will act on that motion, filed on behalf of James D. Nolan, whose suit led to last fall's ruling.

Judge Paul C. Welck of Akron chief judge of the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals and head of the special panel, said the judges had not discussed the latest motion yet.

He said both the other judges, Carl Weinman of Steubenville and John W. Peck of Cincinnati, were on vacation and it had not been determined when a hearing might be set.

Nolan's lawyers urged the court to set a hearing to start some action, noting that Feb. 1 is the filing deadline for next year's election. Nolan's lawyers contend prompt action is needed to get a new apportionment plan into effect for the next June elections.

Several avenues are open to the court.

It could elect to let the legislature try again. In a special session, for a new apportionment plan. It could even delay effectiveness of its order until after its regular session.

Another federal court gave Georgia three years in which to try to solve its apportionment question. But still another federal court ordered Oklahoma's apportionment changed immediately, even cancelling primary elections which had been conducted under an old formula.

Should the Ohio judges decide, as those in Oklahoma did, to impose a court-ordered plan on the next legislative elections, they still would have a choice of approaches.

They would ask the legislature to submit proposals, a step which presumably led to alternate suggestions by Republicans and Democrats, to be reviewed by a court-appointed commission. Or they could appoint some person or persons to represent the court in drafting an apportionment plan which would satisfy the Supreme Court ruling that representatives must be elected from districts as nearly equal in population as possible.

The court could name some outside agency to help it or could turn to the state apportionment board.

Or it could order all state representatives to be elected at large—to run statewide, instead of in districts. That was done in Illinois.

Chance of any agreement in a special legislative session would seem slim.

The court could name some outside agency to help it or could turn to the state apportionment board.

Or it could order all state representatives to be elected at large—to run statewide, instead of in districts. That was done in Illinois.

Chance of any agreement in a special legislative session would seem slim.

'Malicious People' Damage Home Badly

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Marvin Shapiro was heartsick when he saw what vandals had done to his three-story brick rowhouse in west Baltimore.

The basement was flooded. Electrical connections were torn out. Molding was stripped from the walls. Window screens were slashed. And filth was smeared on the walls of the living room, dining room and bedrooms.

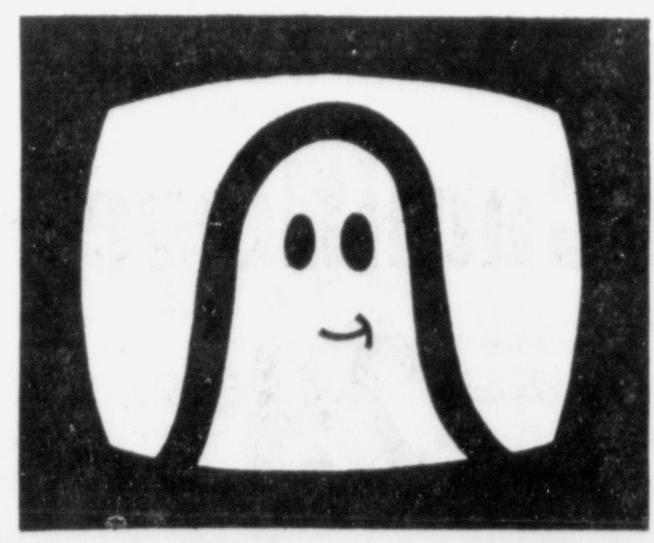

"Sick, malicious people" was the way Shapiro described those who had forced their way into the house. The dwelling, which rents for $22 a week, had just been redecorated and locked by his agent after a routine inspection.

Citizen Teams Patrol Illegal Use of Water

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The Radio Emergency Association Citizen Team, formed last May to help police combat crime in the streets, is now on the lookout for illegal users of water.

The 48 members cruise the streets in private, radio-equipped cars and contact police if criminal activity is spotted. Now the group says it will radio police if they spot illegal water users. Lawn and shrub watering, car washing and some other uses of water have been banned in the city due to drought.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

You Are Certainly Rude!

DEAR ABBY: The husband of a friend of mine suddenly started wearing a wedding ring, after twelve years of marriage. Naturally I commented on it. My friend seemed very proud of the fact that her husband was wearing it, and asked me why I didn't buy MY husband one. I told her that most cultured men did not wear wedding rings. (My husband is an executive, hers is not.) I pointed out that "J.F.K." never wore one and the Kennedys reeked with culture. I said that once in a while you will see a cultured man wearing a wedding ring, but for the most part, only middle-class laborers wear them. We got into quite a hot discussion over it. Can you settle this? EXECUTIVE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt that statistics are available on how many "cultured" men wear wedding rings. But what constitutes "culture"? Social position? Education? Money? Taste? If it's the latter, you don't qualify. Your remarks were unkind and uncalled for.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a very nice buffet supper given in honor of an out-of-town guest. There were 55 or 60 guests present. It was the kind of party where everyone milled around. The guest of honor always seemed to be tied up talking to someone and, since I am not the pushy type who breaks into conversations, I never got around to meeting him. Whose fault was this? NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Yours. It is not considered "pushy" for a guest to introduce himself at such a party. It's SOP.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please print a list of homes for unwed mothers? It doesn't have to be a long list. Just a few places I can call. I don't know where to look. Also, do you know if these homes want much money from the girl, and does she have to pay it all at once? I can't give you my name or address, but I pray that you will answer me in your column. Thank you.

NEEDS SOMEONE

DEAR NEEDS: There are hundreds of homes for unwed mothers throughout the country. The BOOTH MEMORIAL HOMES, supported by the Salvation Army have literally saved the lives of thousands of girls. Also the FLORENCE CRITTENDEN HOMES. If there is a FAMILY SERVICE ASSOCIATION near you, call them. They can help you. Financial arrangements can be worked out if necessary. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who complained about the barber cutting her husband's eyebrows. She said the barber asked her husband if he wanted his eyebrows trimmed and the man said, "Go ahead." So the customer has no kick coming, and neither does his wife. Just because the wife said the barber left only "a few" hairs over each eye doesn't mean you have to believe her. Some women exaggerate so much it isn't funny. I am a barber and I have cut more hair over some men's eyebrows than they've got on their heads. And I never charge them for it. It's just a courtesy. You can't please some people no matter what. Thank you. ANGELO

Revolution in 3 Rs

'New Chemistry' Plan Seems To Help Pupils

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second in a series of five articles on the revolution in the three Rs.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — This is what the knowledge explosion is, and what it means: "If you started at the first of the year to read everything new in chemistry as it came out," says Dr. Laurence Strong, "by the end of the year you'd be 10 years behind."

It is because of this, and because as much has been learned about chemistry in the past 10 to 13 years as was ever learned before, that many of today's high school pupils are studying a "new chemistry" as part of a curricula revolution in U.S. education.

Strong, who has been head of the chemistry department at Earlham (Ind.) College here since 1952, said, it all started in 1957 at a meeting of high school and college chemistry teachers at Reed College in Portland, Ore.

"The high school teachers complained that what they were teaching didn't suit them, and was not really relative to modern-day chemistry. For instance, one single textbook dominated the high school chemistry field—it gave the teachers little choice," he said.

"I suggested a way out might be to organize a course around a key idea that chemists think significant. I further suggested that 'chemical bond' was such an idea.

"This is the idea that atoms are held together by forces to produce compounds. There are other concepts that could have been used.

"The high school teachers were interested, and asked us to do something about it. So we did."

The chemistry course which evolved from that Portland conference is known as Chemical Bond Approach, often referred to as "Chem-Bond" or simply "CBA."

It was the first of two "new" chemistry courses, but it is not the most popular.

That honor goes to the Chemical Education Materials Study, known as "Chem-Study," developed at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont, Calif., and the University of California at Berkeley.

According to U.S. Office of Education figures, more than a million high school juniors study chemistry each year. Of these, about 50,000 are studying Chem-Bond, and about 250,000 are using Chem-Study materials.

Strong said the National Science Foundation wasn't particularly interested in the idea of a new chemistry course when it was first suggested to it in 1957. Two years later, however, the foundation sponsored a writing conference at which 19 high school and college chemistry teachers got together to write the first draft of the Chem-Bond materials.

Those materials were tried out in the schools and revised several times before commercial publication started in January this year.

"Unfortunately," Strong said, "some high schools are still using our earlier materials."

How is it working out?

"We've followed some of our pupils from the trial period into college chemistry," Strong replied. "They seemed to do a little better; there were fewer that failed, more who got high grades."

Strong voiced an opinion shared with many scientists in different disciplines:

"If the elementary school science programs make a real difference in what the pupils bring to the high schools, then the high school science programs must be re-thought and revised."

"It's the elementary science program that will make the next big difference."

Next: The new biology.

New FHA Program Requires Payment for Closing Costs

Even though the new housing law specifies that no down payment is necessary for a $15,000 mortgage for veterans, federal regulations require a minimum payment of $200 to cover closing costs, according to William J. Bresler, president of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors.

The new law, signed July 10 by President Johnson, extends liberal home loan benefits to millions of post-Korean War veterans, hitherto uncovered by any program, and to older veterans who have not used up their eligibility under a Veterans Administration program.

It directs the Federal Housing Administration to insure 100 per cent of the first $15,000 of a home mortgage, 90 per cent of the value in excess of $15,000 to $20,000, and 85 per cent of the value in excess of $20,000 to $30,000.

Bresler said information received from the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, of which the local board is a member, notes that FHA will insist upon a minimum down payment of not less than $200 in lieu of closing costs.

The $200 figure will enable FHA to continue to include closing costs in its estimate of a property's value, instead of making a distinction between veteran and non-veteran mortgagors, he explained noting that under the VA program, GI buyers are required to pay closing costs in cash.

The FHA will require the veteran to make a minimum down payment of not less than $200 on the first $15,000 of appraised value, plus 10 per cent between $15,000 and $20,000, plus 15 per cent of the value above $20,000.

These mortgage terms apply to both existing and new homes, he said, and the standard FHA interest rate of 5 1/4 per cent will apply, plus an additional one-half of one per cent to cover the cost of government insurance.

Any veteran who served 90 days on active duty in the armed forces and was discharged on conditions other than dishonorable is eligible for these terms, provided he has not received any direct, guaranteed, or insured loan through the VA program for the purchase or repair of his home.

Interested veterans may obtain VA Form Number 26-8261, "Certificate of Veteran Status," from his local VA office for attachment to the FHA application form.

An interesting feature of the program, Bresler said, is that a veteran's entitlement under the law does not expire, as under VA programs, and he may use the low down payment terms more than once.

Realtors in Pickaway County are familiar with the new law's requirements and financing arrangements and already have a desirable inventory of homes in the price ranges covered by the program, he said.

$250,000 Donation Is Given to Miami

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—The widow of a local realtor and developer has donated $250,000 for an auditorium on Miami University's Middletown campus.

The gift by Mrs. Gladys Finkelman, widow of Dave Finkelman, was announced Tuesday.

Logan T. Johnston, president of Armco Steel Corp. and head of the Middletown campus fund drive, said the gift will make possible the construction of a 750-seat, $750,000 auditorium on the campus scheduled to open in the fall of 1966.

DEAR ABBY: The husband of a friend of mine suddenly started wearing a wedding ring, after twelve years of marriage. Naturally I commented on it. My friend seemed very proud of the fact that her husband was wearing it, and asked me why I didn't buy MY husband one. I told her that most cultured men did not wear wedding rings. (My husband is an executive, hers is not.) I pointed out that "J.F.K." never wore one and the Kennedys reeked with culture. I said that once in a while you will see a cultured man wearing a wedding ring, but for the most part, only middle-class laborers wear them. We got into quite a hot discussion over it. Can you settle this?

EXECUTIVE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt that statistics are available on how many "cultured" men wear wedding rings. But what constitutes "culture"? Social position? Education? Money? Taste? If it's the latter, you don't qualify. Your remarks were unkind and uncalled for.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a very nice buffet supper given in honor of an out-of-town guest. There were 55 or 60 guests present. It was the kind of party where everyone milled around. The guest of honor always seemed to be tied up talking to someone and, since I am not the pushy type who breaks into conversations, I never got around to meeting him. Whose fault was this?

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Yours. It is not considered "pushy" for a guest to introduce himself at

New FHA Program Requires Payment for Closing Costs

Even though the new housing law specifies that no down payment is necessary for a $15,000 mortgage for veterans, federal regulations require a minimum payment of $200 to cover closing costs, according to William J. Bresler, president of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors.

The new law, signed July 10 by President Johnson, extends liberal home loan benefits to millions of post - Korean War veterans, hitherto uncovered by any program, and to older veterans who have not used up their eligibility under a Veterans Administration program.

It directs the Federal Housing Administration to insure 100 per cent of the first $15,000 of a home mortgage, 90 per cent of the value in excess of $15,000 to $20,000, and 85 per cent of the value in excess of $20,000 to $30,000.

Bresler said information received from the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, of which the local board is a member, notes that FHA will insist upon a minimum down payment of not less than $200 in lieu of closing costs.

The $200 figure will enable

Revolution in 3 Rs

'New Chemistry' Plan Seems To Help Pupils

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second in a series of five articles on the revolution in the three Rs.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — This is what the knowledge explosion is, and what it means:

"If you started at the first of the year to read everything new in chemistry as it came out," says Dr. Laurence Strong, "by the end of the year you'd be 10 years behind."

It is because of this, and because as much has been learned about chemistry in the past 10 to 13 years as was ever learned before, that many of today's high school pupils are studying a "new chemistry" as part of a curricula revolution in U.S. education.

Strong, who has been head of the chemistry department at Earlham (Ind.) College here since 1952, said, it all started in 1957 at a meeting of high school and college chemistry teachers at Reed College in Portland, Ore.

"The high school teachers complained that what they were teaching didn't suit them, and was not really relative to modern - day chemistry. For instance, one single textbook dominated the high school chemistry field—it gave the teachers little choice," he said.

"I suggested a way out might be to organize a course around a key idea that chemists think significant. I further suggested that 'chemical bond' was such an idea.

"This is the idea that atoms are held together by forces to produce compounds. There are other concepts that could have been used.

"The high school teachers were interested, and asked us to do something about it. So we did."

The chemistry course which evolved from that Portland conference is known as Chemical Bond Approach, often referred to as "Chem-Bond" or simply "CBA."

It was the first of two "new" chemistry courses, but it is not the most popular.

That honor goes to the Chemical Education Materials Study, known as "Chem-Study," developed at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont, Calif., and the University of California at Berkeley.

According to U.S. Office of Education figures, more than a million high school juniors study chemistry each year. Of these, about 50,000 are studying Chem-Bond, and about 250,000 are using Chem-Study materials.

Strong said the National Science Foundation wasn't particularly interested in the idea of a new chemistry course when it was first suggested to it in 1957. Two years later, however, the foundation sponsored a writing conference at which 19 high school and college chemistry teachers got together to write the first draft of the Chem-Bond materials.

Those materials were tried out in the schools and revised several times before commercial publication started in January this year.

"Unfortunately," Strong said, "some high schools are still using our earlier materials."

How is it working out?

"We've followed some of our pupils from the trial period into college chemistry," Strong replied. "They seemed to do a little better; there were fewer that failed, more who got high grades."

Strong voiced an opinion shared with many scientists in different disciplines:

"If the elementary school science programs make a real difference in what the pupils bring to the high schools, then the high school science programs must be re-thought and revised.

"It's the elementary science program that will make the next big difference."

Next: The new biology.

Outlook Is Termed Gloomy For Faithful Sled Dogs

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
Many an adventurous man owes his life to a sled-sleigh dog. These beautiful animals which accompanied Amundsen to the South Pole and Byrd to the North Pole have their roots deeply imbedded in the romance of the North American continent.

The dogs have been subjected to the glorious imaginations of such novelists as Jack London and James Oliver Curwood, and eloquently have been painted in words for their life-saving and life - preserving unselfishness, courage and intelligence. However, their worth is being seriously challenged by mechanization. The plaintive growl which greeted the visitor at an Indian settlement in the north woods is being replaced by the roar of gasoline or Diesel engines. The trails which once knew only the soft pat of leathery, over-sized paws are now feeling the hard crunch of power-driven rubber tracks or metal cleats.

The remarkable dogs have few and simple requirements. Rarely does a sled dog enjoy the carefully processed rations of his more domesticated cousins. Often, after a hard day in the hick, his reward may be one or two fish — not necessarily fresh.

Once in a while he will be fortunate enough to be presented the left-overs of a caribou or moose, or sometimes a snow-shoe rabbit. In some areas whale, seal, walrus and polar bear are the staple diet.

For these dubious pleasures he is expected to pull his share of the load, never fight with the other dogs, be subjected to constant bellowings and profanities from his master — and eat as little as possible.

A well-aimed kick to the ribs, a stout sapling across the ear and only a rare kind word of affection is his accepted way of life. Even the kindest chuck under the chin will earn, for his owner, nothing more than a furtive glance and a couple of wags from the sled dog's bushy tail.

The sleigh dogs probably came to North America with man across the Bering Strait, centuries ago. Eskimos and Indians probably tethered female dogs in wolf-infested areas, and as crossbreeding improved the strain and nature of the animals, the "husky"—most common as today's sled dog — resulted. He has thick fur, short ears and a long, bushy tail (which he uses to protect his naked nose from freezing when sleeping out in minus 50 degree temperatures).

As a pup, the husky is a ball of fur with big feet and tireless antics which win the affection of everyone in the village. He is permitted to roam the village at his leisure during his first summer, playing with other dogs and any child who can keep up with him.

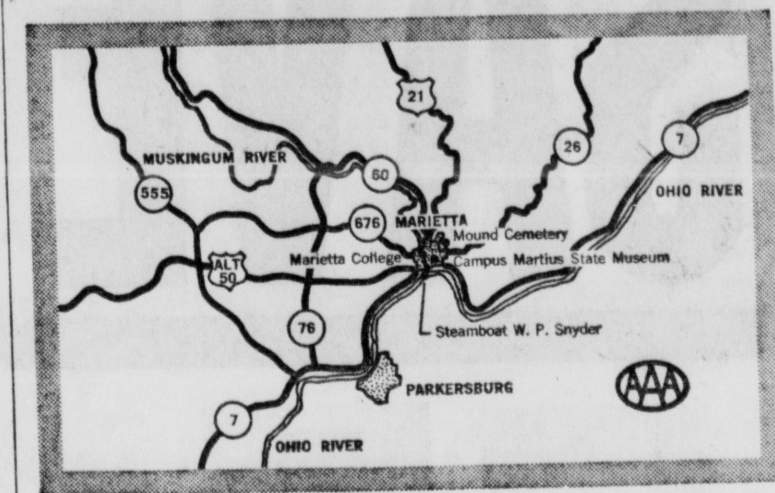

In the winter, however, in the lean and scant northland, it's a matter of survival-of-the-fittest and there's no room for weaklings. That's when he starts to work as a sleigh dog . . . and it's a dog's life.

Yes, the snow-mobile, snow-toboggan and the skiddoo are replacing the sled dogs of the north. And to the Indian and Eskimo trapper, hunter and fisherman, the age of mechanization is near. But there is one way the powerful gasoline-driven vehicles can never replace the husky:

When the blizzard rages at its worst, with winds howling across the mountain or the tundra, without the sled dog the Arctic night will surely seem a little longer, a little lonelier.

Marietta's Natural Beauty Blends with Historic Past

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of tours to state memorials maintained by the Ohio Historical Society prepared for readers of The Herald by the Columbus Auto Club.

Marietta, home of the first government in the Northwest Territory, is a city of historic interest as well as natural beauty.

The city, located at the junction of the Muskingum and Ohio Rivers, was settled in 1788 by 48 pioneers under the leadership of Rufus Putnam. It was named for Marie Antoinette, queen of France.

Of special interest is the Campus Martius Museum, on the site of an old fortification which housed many residents until the end of the Indian Wars in 1795. Administered by the Ohio Historical Society, it includes exhibits which portray life in the frontier community.

In addition to memorabilia of the early families living in Marietta, the museum also includes relics of the Blennerhassett who lived from 1798 to 1806 on an island a few miles downstream.

Preserved in the museum are the home of Rufus Putnam built in 1788 and the old land office, also built by Putnam.

Since the first settlers came by way of the Ohio River, the museum offers a display of sale models and mementos of river boats, past and present.

The stern - wheeler, "W. P. Snyder, Jr.," has been moored in the Muskingum River since 1955, as a public museum and a memorial to the proud fleet of steamboats which for many years carried passengers and freight over both the Ohio and the Muskingum. More efficient oil-powered diesel engines now carry giant tows past Marietta.

A marked city tour guides motorists to many scenic and historic points of interests.

The Columbus Auto Club suggests this routing to the tour area: Route 22 to Lancaster; Route 33 to Route 50 Alt. just north of Athens; Route 50, Alt. to Marietta.

Restauranteers Seek Way To Reduce Costs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Restaurant owners say the rising cost of food may prompt some drastic changes in the business, the most likely to be automation.

The Ohio State Restaurant Association said Tuesday that a poll taken among food service operators indicated that their cost level "will never go down to, say, the level of 1964."

The association will hold its annual convention here Sept. 14-16. The high cost of food and other matters will be up for discussion.

Still Grinding Axes

HULL, Quebec (AP)—At 97, Morley P. Walters watches one of his machines punch out 300 ax heads an hour, and recalls: "When I was a boy I used a 14 - pound sledgehammer to pound out ax heads, and 15 a day was considered good."

He designed the machine. Walters owns the Walters Axe Co., founded by his father and now described as the biggest manufacturer of axes in the British Commonwealth. It has a subsidiary, Walters Axe Inc., at Ogdensburg, N.Y., and he gets hickory handles from Arkansas and Mississippi.

Walters, still muscular and a solid-looking, looks in on the plant every day but leaves it's supervision to a 49-year-old general manager, John Ham-mell.

Wood Pulp Turned into High Profits

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—From a company that had decided to give up a decade ago, Idaho's Boise Cascade Corp. has grown into one of America's top three lumber producers — and it is still growing.

In 1956 Boise Cascade sold lumber and building materials — $35 million worth. Now it turns trees into everything from safety paper for checkbooks to factory — built homes. Sales were over $271 million last year.

Robert V. Hansberger, the corporation's 44-year-old president, expects sales to top $400 million this year.

It all started after World War II when lumber companies that could afford it began turning wood scraps into pulp for paper.

The new pulp sideline brought high profits and the price of lumber went down. Small companies like the Boise Payette Lumber Co. that could not afford $10 million pulp mills decided to get out.

"Liquidate by '48" became Boise Payette's motto and when no one would buy — for the same reason the company wanted to sell — that motto became "all done by '51."

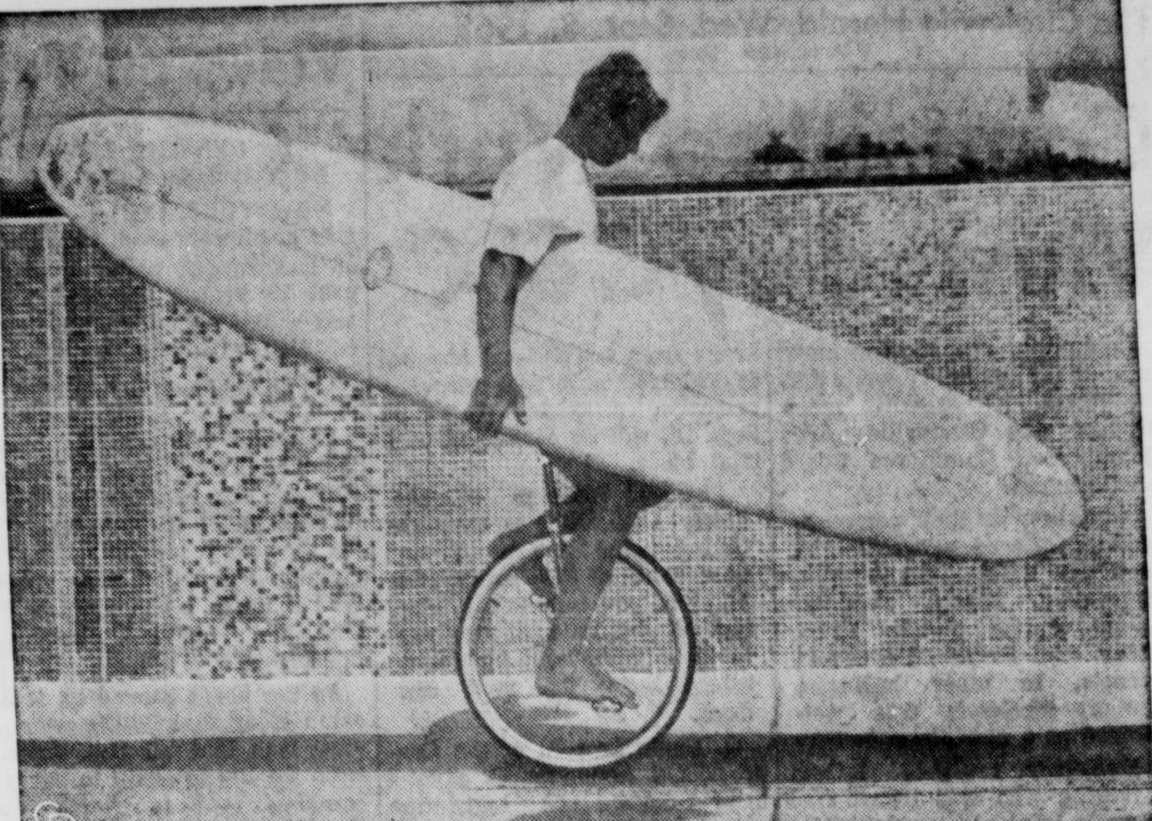

By 1956 there had been no takers. That was when Boise Payette hired Hansberger — then the 35-year-old executive vice president of an Oregon pulp and paper firm — as its president.

He lined up a merger with the Cascade Lumber Co. of Yakima, Wash., to start a combine that could afford to build a pulp mill at Wallula, Wash. The merged company became Boise Cascade.

Its 18 primary wood plants produce lumber, plywood and a line of building materials including laminated beams. Ten pulp and paper plants, including two in Guatemala and one in the Philippines, produce fine paper, kraft linerboard and newsprint.

Paper converting plants across the country make envelopes, bags, stationery and related paper products. The new Kingsberry Homes division manufactures factory-built homes on the East Coast and in Iowa. It made and sold 4,300 units last year.

Friendly Indians presented Columbus with a peccary when he touched shore on what is now Costa Rica. The wild pig proved so fierce it chased the admiral's Irish wolfhound around the deck of the flagship.

Committee Work Viewed by C of C

Committee reports consumed most of the business agenda during yesterday's monthly meeting of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Chairmen or their representatives offered progress and activity within the Airport, Education, Safety, Congressional Action Public Relations and Retail Merchants panels. In other business, Robert McKelvey was welcomed as a new director.

McKelvey replaces Robert Wavering who was transferred recently by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. The new director will serve as chairman of the Program Committee.

D. E. Goodchild, head of the Airport panel, said his group will be represented at a special meeting called by Gov. Rhodes for Thursday in Columbus. It has been indicated that the County Board of Commissioners and other interested persons will attend.

GOODCHILD noted that preliminary steps have been taken toward the establishment of a local airport authority. This was done by way of a meeting with the County Commission several days ago.

The committee also has viewed the possibility of obtaining land for an airport facility at the County Infirmary which will be closed in the near future. Additional talks with the Commissioners have been scheduled to explore this approach.

A communication from Alden D. Bray, chairman of the Education committee, noted that his panel has agreed to work with a local group interested in the employment of restored veterans from the federal hospital at Chillicothe. A job interview program, scheduled to start Sept. 27, will be conducted on a trial basis.

Charles Wellman of the Safety Committee announced that planning is under way for observance of Fire Prevention Week in this community. The type of promotional program to be followed will be determined during the next few days.

G. Ninde Lawson of the Congressional Action panel gave a brief rundown on legislation now before Congress.

J. Boyd Stout of the Public Relations unit reported that an invitation submitted to the President Johnson family to visit this year's Pumpkin Show has been turned down, with regrets, by the White House.

A REPLY to the invitation was received from a presidential aide. The correspondence extended the President's thanks, but noted that the Johnson family has prior commitments during the Pumpkin Show period.

Forrest Thomerson of the Retail Merchants made it known that earlier plans for a beef barbecue in conjunction with the "Harvest of Values" sale scheduled here Sept. 23-25 are failing to materialize. He said lack of volunteer help to promote the project and poor merchant response may lead to cancellation of the event.

Dale DeLong requested the Chamber's assistance in bolstering a sagging Bloodmobile collection program here.

DeLong said the Circleville Rotary Club is in the process of revitalizing a community collection program and that the Chamber's support would be appreciated. The Bloodmobile is scheduled for trips here Sept. 17, Oct. 15 and Nov. 29, with a quota of 140 pints set for each visit.

In other business, president Jack Clifton named Earl Palm, Charles Wellman, Dale DeLong, Charles Schieber and himself to a nominating committee that will elect new director candidates.

NEW YORK (AP) — A massive cram course on the history of our foreign policy over the past 20 years occupied three and a half prime evening hours on NBC Tuesday night — a record length for a television news special.

Called "American White Paper: United States Foreign Policy," the seminar undertook to explain our nation's unchanging goal from the time the Iron Curtain descended after World War II up to the moment of the broadcast with Americans fighting in Viet Nam.

As the hours moved on it became clear that NBC's point of view was that all U.S. actions from the Berlin airlift to the last bombing raid in North Viet Nam were taken simply to prevent the spread of communism and to fulfill commitments to protect the freedom of our allies.

The logistics of constructing this extraordinary program were as remarkable as its simplicity and clarity. Twenty-four film crews were among the 133 NBC staff men who filmed and researched almost 1½ million feet of celluloid to select the 40,000 feet that made up the program.

Executive Vice President William McAndrew of NBC News estimated that the production cost of the effort was "around $500,000," only part of which was paid by the program's single sponsor. The network's regular summer programs were pre-empted for the evening. Even the usual cluster of short commercials that crop up around station identification breaks were dropped.

The program began with an explanation of the development of our policy of containment as it applied to the Soviet Union from Stalin through Khrushchev and the movement of the two great powers toward nuclear showdowns.

The second part dealt with our policy as it affected peoples of the emerging and underdeveloped nations, explaining our foreign aid programs and touching on the Cuban and Dominican crises.

The third segment was primarily devoted to an explanation of how, by drawing a line on Communist encroachment, we were drawn first into Korea and then into South Viet Nam as we moved to try to contain the Chinese Reds as well.

It was an intelligent and calm analysis, particularly enlightening at a time when tragic events tend to obscure and confuse issues.

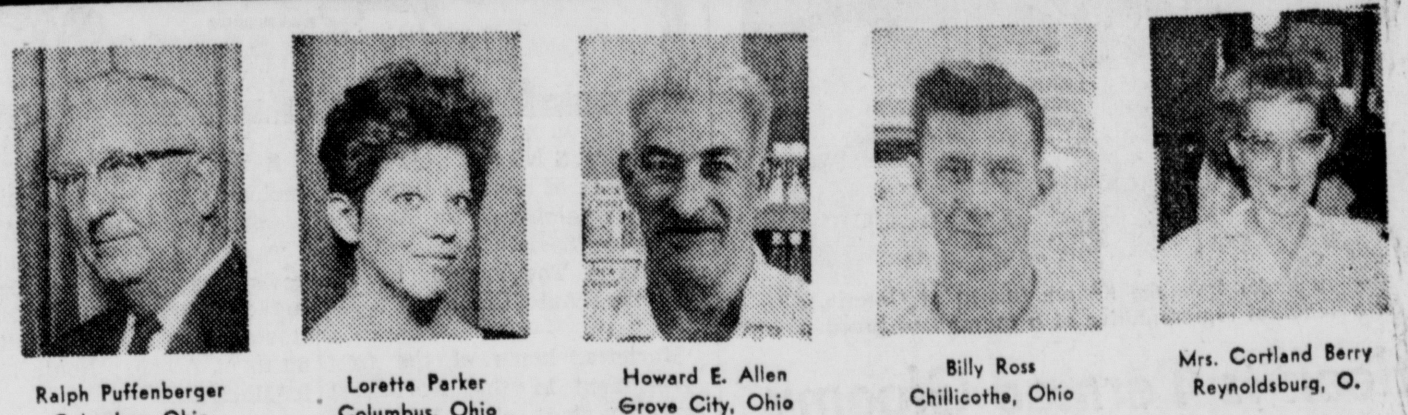

This admiring viewer would like, however, to inject one strong note of criticism. It was far, far too long a single program to impose at one sitting even on the most eager viewer. NBC would have done us all a favor if it had broken the program into three successive nights.

Leisurely Thug Robs Store of $9,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — A slow moving robber walked off Tuesday with more than $9,000 from a suburban Euclid discount store after leisurely leafing through some magazines and drinking a soft drink.

Police said the neatly dressed man followed Mrs. Marian Betz, 37, into her office, sat down, pulled an automatic pistol and quietly asked her to put the morning's receipts into a brown paper bag.

Committee Work Viewed by C of C

Committee reports consumed most of the business agenda during yesterday's monthly meeting of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Chairmen or their representatives offered progress and activity within the Airport, Education, Safety, Congressional Action Public Relations and Retail Merchants panels. In other business, Robert McKelvey was welcomed as a new director.

McKelvey replaces Robert Waverling who was transferred recently by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. The new director will serve as chairman of the Program Committee.

3 Girls Form 'Supremes,' Are Now Making Million

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Take three Detroit girls, give them glamor trappings and a new rock 'n' roll sound, and what do you get? In the case of the Supremes, a million-dollar enterprise.

Within the brief space of a year, Diane Ross, Florence Ballard and Mary Wilson have been converted into world travelers earning fortunes with their songs. They were in Hollywood on one of their breakneck tours, picking up more loot with appearances on the Red Skelton and Dean Martin television shows.

Diane Ross appears to be the spokesman for the group. She is 21, as is Mary, Florence is the oldtimer; she's 22.

"We started singing together seven years ago, when we were 14 and 15," reported Diane. "We sang at dances and shows around Detroit."

"In those days we called ourselves the Primettes. But when we started recording last year we needed a better-sounding name, so we picked the Supremes from a list that the secretary at the record company had compiled. It sounded pretty good."

Their first record, "Where Did Our Love Go," sounded more than good to the teenagers who buy most of today's single records. A million and a half copies went over the counters in this country. Another half-million in England. The Supremes seem unable to produce anything but hits, having followed with such solid sellers as "Baby Love," "Come See About Me," "Stop in the Name of Love," "Back in My Arms Again," "Nothing but Heartaches" and "Mother Dear."

These instant classics are whipped up for them by three Detroit boys who write for Motown Records. The Supremes' style is now termed "The Motown sound," which has to be heard to be understood.

The lives of the three girls have changed immensely in the past year, mostly for the better. On the good side is the money, which they are husbanding with care.

"We all bought houses for our parents, but otherwise the money goes right into the bank," Diane said. "You never know when the whole thing will blow over."

Trust Fund Set For Victims of Pipeline Blast

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Buckeye Pipeline Co. has established a trust fund for the widowed mother injured along with six of her children in an explosion Aug. 21.

A seventh child of Mrs. Priscilla Rigdon, whose husband had died in an auto accident, was killed when a Buckeye pipeline carrying propane gas exploded, devastating the Rigdon home.

Establishment of the trust fund was confirmed by John Marsh Jr. of nearby Delphos, attorney for the Rigdon family. The fund amount was not disclosed.

Marsh said the trust fund is not a settlement by the pipeline company.

Do-It-Yourself Divorce Procedure Condemned

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada's divorce laws may be more liberal than those in most states, but the do-it-yourself divorce is going too far.

Max W. Dail, 21, San Jose, Calif., was convicted of forging a judge's name to his divorce decree.

The district attorney's office said Dail made out the decree himself without bothering to go to court.

Race Riots To Color California Election

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Rioting in Los Angeles' Negro slums has converted next year's California elections into "a new ball game," says Hale Champion, chief political adviser to Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Champion, who is state finance director, isn't alone in believing the nation's worst racial outburst in recent years has changed the ground rules for the struggle for political control of California.

But nobody knows the ultimate effect in a state where Republicans are trying to end eight years of Democratic administration and give their party an early boost in the 1968 presidential race. Brown's aides say he'll seek a third term in 1966, although the governor hasn't publicly announced his plans.

Will there be a white backlash protest against a governor who has always fought hard for civil rights?

The Republican state chairman, Dr. Gaylord Parkinson, says he doesn't think so, adding that the riots aren't a political issue.

U. S. Sen. George Murphy of California, a Republican, charged, however, that the riots were the result of "a political mess created under the Democratic administration."

Many Democrats believe the eruption in the slums of Watts has posed a deep problem for Democrats already worried about holding the loyalty of white residents of the suburbs.

The riots have given a boost, they say, to Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, who is considering running against Brown in the Democratic primary next June. He has steadfastly defended the city's police chief, William H. Parker, against Negro accusations of police brutality.

Even before the riots, Democratic strategists expressed fear of voter rebellion in Los Angeles County's nominally Democratic white suburbs.

Don Bradley, who will help run Brown's re-election campaign, recalled that the registered Democrats in the "predominantly white low-income areas" rejected party civil rights leadership last year and voted for an initiative nullifying anti discrimination housing laws. The measure won in Los Angeles County by almost a million votes.

Republicans also have their eyes on the suburbs, hoping to carry the state on a tide of votes from the mushrooming residential tracts in Los Angeles Orange and San Diego counties and elsewhere.

But California's GOP is still locked in an ideological struggle between the conservatives who followed Barry Goldwater in last year's presidential primary, and the moderates who backed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Ohio's 'Hot Wire' Law Tested in Court

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's controversial two-year-old "hot wire" law, which gives electric utilities the right to run high-voltage lines through cities, is being tested in court in a dispute between the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. (CEI) and the city of Painesville.

The case got under way Tuesday and CEI is seeking a declaratory judgment that it does not need the city's consent to string 345,000-volt lines on steel towers through the city or, if it does, consent cannot be legally withheld.

City Council adopted June 21 an ordinance requiring electric utility wires over 33,000 volts to be underground.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the years ahead the Red Chinese may sorely regret their recent outline for world revolution.

It gives leaders of the non-Communist world a justification for action against revolutions and undermines the case of those opposing intervention. For example, Viet Nam.

With the Chinese blueprint in mind Secretary of State Dean Rusk Tuesday night said the Communist world's common strategy is to win control of Asia, Africa and Latin America and thus strangle the Atlantic world.

His evidence, if he needed any, is Red China's strategy as given last week in a long article by Marshal Lin Biao, minister of defense and one of the top men around Mao Tze-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist party.

Marshal Lin said the Vietnamese war demonstrates that a "people's war" in Asia, Africa or Latin America can be waged successfully against the United States. But Red China has Western Europe in mind as a necessary target, too.

Boiled down, the argument goes like this:

The people of Asia, Africa and Latin America may not have the weapons possessed by the United States and its Western allies but, if they have the will to win, they can. But how?

The fight should be made by the people of the countryside against the cities. In the end the Western world is the city and the people of the rest of the world are the countryside.

Thus, according to this thinking, the United States and Western Europe, bit by bit, revolution by revolution, can be encircled and destroyed.

While Marshal Lin suggests that the Soviet Union, now treated with contempt by Red China, is opposed to the kind of people's war he has in mind, Rusk thinks the Soviet Union's ultimate aims are the same as Red China's.

He said the only real difference between those two worlds of communism is how "to get on with the world revolution."

The Red Chinese dismiss as inconsequential the penalties of war by saying "temporary suffering is repaid by lasting or even perpetual peace and happiness."

This, of course, is the unreal, Utopian dream that if the world was full of nothing but Communist nations there would be no war even though the Soviet Union and Red China already are good examples of how Communist nations don't get along.

Let anyone doubt Red China would get involved in these worldwide revolutions, the marshal says:

"As for the revolutionary wars waged by the oppressed nations and peoples, so far from opposing them, we invariably give them firm support and active aid."

After that statement how could an American president, if he was reluctant to intervene in a Latin-American revolution right in this country's backyard, be sure it was not fomented and assisted by Red China?

Giving promises that, as Red China grows in strength, it will provide even more aid for revolutions around the world, the marshal says:

"The determination of the Chinese people to support and aid the Vietnamese people in their struggle against U. S. aggression and for national salvation is unshakable."

"No matter what U.S. imperialism may do to expand its war adventure, the Chinese people will do everything in their power to support the Vietnamese people, until every single one of the U.S. aggressors is driven out of Viet Nam."

The Red Chinese stop short in the marshal's outline of saying they would get directly into the war in Viet Nam. But the marshal warns the United States not to get into war with Red China.

As if talking about pancakes instead of human beings, he says: "The vast ocean of several hundred million Chinese people in arms will be more than enough to submerge your few million aggressive troops."

Rusk said he hoped a successful defense of South Viet Nam will help to change Red China's judgement.

Negro Teacher Layoffs Eyed

Dixie Integration Aftermath Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association said today it will send a 36-man task force through the south to study the problems of Negro teachers who have lost their jobs because of school integration.

The survey will get underway in about two weeks, and will cover 17 southern and border states.

Samuel B. Ethridge of the NEA told a news conference that the NEA knows of 300 Negroes who have been displaced, and estimates the total at about 1,000.

Ethridge said 5,500 Negro teachers could lose their positions.

In addition to these losses due to integration, Ethridge said at least 200 Negroes have lost teaching jobs in Florida because of low scores made on the National Teacher Examination.

Exact figures are hard to come by, Ethridge said, because many Negro teachers accept their dismissal without a fuss.

Dr. William G. Carr, executive secretary of the NEA, said the organization is raising a $1 million fund through donations

Bond Issuance Okayed by Solons

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds in connection with the controversial Sanitary Sewer District No. 2 was the only legislative action completed during last night's meeting of City Council.

The bonds are to be issued in anticipation of the collection of special assessments already levied for the purpose of paying the property owners' portion of the construction cost. The issuance will be in the principal amount of $125,325 and dated Nov. 1, 1965.

The project has been tied up in court litigation, by way of two taxpayer suits, for more than three years. City Council currently is concentrating on finding a solution and bring the thorny matter to a conclusion.

Steps to move forward with the program were undertaken last month when Council hired the Cleveland legal firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey to assist the city solicitor in handling court proceedings.

***

IT WAS pointed out that the bonds to be issued cannot be sold until the legal entanglements are solved. However, necessary levies can be made against supposed benefitted property owners and the money set aside for the project cost.

In other business, the lawmakers set Oct. 19 as the date for a public hearing on a request for a zoning reclassification in the Garden City area.

The zoning request was submitted to Council in July by residents in the Garden City vicinity. Their petition concerns lots in the area they feel could be used for commercial purposes.

Alcoholic Needs Help From His Entire Family

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fighting alcoholism is a job for the whole family, a study under way by a Cincinnati service agency shows.

It involves not only the alcoholic himself, but his wife, his children or brothers and sisters. The study is aimed at combating the problem considered a major disease in the country.

The importance of involving the whole family is because not only does the alcoholic's behavior affect the family, but they in turn can play an important role in his recovery," is the gist of the study by the local chapter of Family Service, a nationwide organization.

The study is concerned only with men alcoholics.

We want to convince wives, children and other members of the family that alcoholism is a disease, and that early detection is of great importance," says Mrs. Pauline Cohen, associate case - work director of Family Service here.

Our goal, she says, "is discovering the hidden alcoholic." The study was started in 1962 and so far about 300 families have been involved.

Mrs. Cohen said Family Service is in a "unique" position of fighting alcoholism because a wife may seek our help in solving a family problem, such as marital or financial. But often we learn that the cause of the problem is the hidden alcoholic."

The wife of an alcoholic, she said often supports his denial that drinking is the root of their problem.

"Through trained workers, we try to convince the wife that alcoholism — is not hopeless," Mrs. Cohen said. "Her attitude must be changed and instead of anger and distrust there must be trust and mutual examination of the problem."

"We show her how the problem affects the whole family, and what she can do. We want to rebuild her confidence. It's hard for women to accept or believe that their husbands are alcoholics."

Mrs. Cohen said children of the alcoholic also are involved in the study. "Many alcoholics don't think children know about their drinking problem, but they do. And it's important that the children recognize it as a problem."

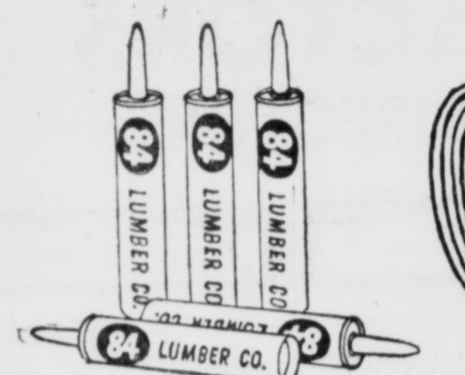

"One of the advantages of working with the whole family," Mrs. Cohen said, "is that they see what can be done. We can't treat one member of the family without helping the other."

Mrs. Cohen said the real success of the new study, with statistical reports, won't be known for about six months.

tive aid."

After that statement how could an American president, if he was reluctant to intervene in a Latin-American revolution right in this country's backyard, be sure it was not fomented and assisted by Red China?

Giving promises that, as Red China grows in strength, it will provide even more aid for revolutions around the world, the marshal says:

"The determination of the Chinese people to support and aid the Vietnamese people in their struggle against U. S. aggression and for national salvation is unshakable."

"No matter what U.S. imperialism may do to expand its war adventure, the Chinese people will do everything in their power to support the Vietnamese people, until every single one of the U.S. aggressors is driven out of Viet Nam."

The Red Chinese stop short in the marshal's outline of saying they would get directly into the war in Viet Nam. But the marshal warns the United States not to get into war with Red China.

As if talking about pancakes instead of human beings, he says: "The vast ocean of several hundred million Chinese people in arms will be more than enough to submerge your few million aggressive troops."

Rusk said he hoped a successful defense of South Viet Nam will help to change Red China's judgement.

Negro Teacher Layoffs Eyed Bond Issuance Okayed by Solons

Dixie Integration Aftermath Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association said today it will send a 36-man task force through the south to study the problems of Negro teachers who have lost their jobs because of school integration.

The survey will get underway in about two weeks, and will cover 17 southern and border states.

Samuel B. Ethridge of the NEA told a news conference that the NEA knows of 300 Negroes who have been displaced, and estimates the total at about 1,000.

Ethridge said 5,500 Negro teachers could lose their positions.

In addition to these losses due to integration, Ethridge said at least 200 Negroes have lost teaching jobs in Florida because of low scores made on the National Teacher Examination.

Exact figures are hard to come by, Ethridge said, because many Negro teachers accept their dismissal without a fuss.

Dr. William G. Carr, executive secretary of the NEA, said the organization is raising a $1 million fund through donations from its 943,000 members to support the civil and professional rights of all its members, white and Negro.

The fund will be used, Carr said, to help "the victims of illegal, capricious dismissals, punitive transfers, intimidation, and other invasions of the professional rights of teachers."

The Cleveland legal firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey to assist the city solicitor in handling court proceedings.

IT WAS pointed out that the bonds to be issued cannot be sold until the legal entanglements are solved. However, necessary levies can be made against supposed benefitted property owners and the money set aside for the project cost.

In other business, the lawmakers set Oct. 19 as the date for a public hearing on a request for a zoning reclassification in the Garden City area.

The zoning request was submitted to Council in July by residents in the Garden City vicinity. Their petition concerns lots in the area they feel could be used for commercial purposes.

Alcoholic Needs Help From His Entire Family

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fighting alcoholism is a job for the whole family, a study under way by a Cincinnati service agency shows.

It involves not only the alcoholic himself, but his wife, his children or brothers and sisters. The study is aimed at combating the problem considered a major disease in the country.

The importance of involving the whole family is because not only does the alcoholic's behavior affect the family, but they in turn can play an important role in his recovery," is the gist of the study by the local chapter of Family Service, a nationwide organization.

The study is concerned only with men alcoholics.

We want to convince wives, children and other members of the family that alcoholism is a disease, and that early detection is of great importance," says Mrs. Pauline Cohen, associate case - work director of Family Service here.

Our goal, she says, "is discovering the hidden alcoholic." The study was started in 1962 and so far about 300 families have been involved.

Mrs. Cohen said Family Service is in a "unique" position of fighting alcoholism because a wife may seek our help in solving a family problem, such as marital or financial. But often we learn that the cause of the problem is the hidden alcoholic."

The wife of an alcoholic, she said often supports his denial that drinking is the root of their problem.

"Through trained workers, we try to convince the wife that alcoholism — is not hopeless," Mrs. Cohen said. "Her attitude must be changed and instead of anger and distrust there must be trust and mutual examination of the problem."

"We show her how the problem affects the whole family, and what she can do. We want to rebuild her confidence. It's hard for women to accept or believe that their husbands are alcoholics."

Mrs. Cohen said children of the alcoholic also are involved in the study. "Many alcoholics don't think children know about their drinking problem, but they do. And it's important that the children recognize it as a problem."

"One of the advantages of working with the whole family," Mrs. Cohen said, "is that they see what can be done. We can't treat one member of the family without helping the other."

Mrs. Cohen said the real success of the new study, with statistical reports, won't be known for about six months.

Solons Set for More Study On Two Business Proposals

Circleville Councilmen had last night the opportunity to evaluate two business ventures that have been proposed within the city.

The proposals concern the Multi-Channel Cable Co. of Portsmouth, a cable antenna television operation, and Community Service Products, a firm with a new concept in litter control. Both seek Council approval to initiate operations here.

Paul J. Setters, an executive assistant represented the cable firm. Charles Mumaw, former Circleville business man, outlined the Community Service Products proposal.

Setters was making his second appearance before Council since July. He said the objective of his company is to obtain a franchise or permit to operate in this community.

ACCORDING to Setters, the voluntary project would provide a maximum of 12 signals or channels here. Participation by residents would be on a voluntary, monthly basis.

The spokesman also pointed out that the cable operation would not interfere with or curtail present television reception. The cost amounts to $5 per month per customer.

Samples copies of an ordinance authorizing the cable operation here will be provided by Setters for all councilmen.

Solon Robert Turner commented on the need for a closer study of the proposal, especially in regard to Federal Communications Commission observations of the cable systems.

Councilman David Crawford was named to head up a committee that will conduct a continued study of the proposal. Setters said he would be happy to meet with the panel at its convenience.

Mumaw said his company desires to provide Circleville with new type litter receptacles, with no financial obligation or liability to the city. Financing would be borne by eight local business establishments whose individual advertisements would appear on the containers.

THE RECEPTACLES, all metal and of the newest design according to Mumaw, would be placed in the downtown area. He said about 20 of the containers could be utilized here.

He explained that the receptacles would remain the property of Community Service Products. In the event of damage the company would repair or replace them at no cost to the city or advertisers.

Mumaw said his company seeks permission to locate the containers on downtown streets and have them serviced by the City Service Department similar to the way present receptacles are emptied on a scheduled basis.

The proposal was submitted to the Service Committee for study and future report.

In the way of additional non-legislative business, the solons received a letter from the City Board of Health denoting four property owners who have not complied with directives to mow weeds. Council currently is contemplating ordering the work done by taking necessary legislative action. If so, cost of the mowing would be placed as a lien against the properties involved.

Ervin Leist, public utilities manager, reported that Well No. 2 has been drilled and a test pump installed at the water plant site. He said the next step will be to act on bids for actual construction after testing is completed.

ROUTINE reports included remarks by solon John Jenkins concerning the need for keeping certain traffic lights on all night, rather than switching them to caution during specific hours. He referred to the detour now in force at the E. Main St. construction area.

Safety Director Miller Fissell said the lights could be kept on 24 hours a day if desired. Council indicated a decision on the matter would be up to Fissell.

7th GOP Hat Tossed into Political Ring

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Clarence J. Brown Jr., Urbana publisher and radio station operator, and Albert E. Payne, who made three successful tries for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in the 1940s, are the sixth and seventh Republicans to announce for the congressional seat held by Brown's late father.

Brown, 38, chief executive of the Brown Publishing Co., declared his candidacy early Tuesday and Payne, 59, of Springfield dropped his hat into the ring Tuesday night.

Filing deadline for nominations in the special primary election is Saturday. The special primary, called by Gov. James A. Rhodes, will be held Sept. 21 with the new congressman being chosen in the regular Nov. 2 election.

The congressional vacancy was created by the death Aug. 23 of Clarence J. Brown Sr., Blanchester, who held the 7th Congressional District seat for 27 years.

No Democrats have formally announced for the post. Democratic chairmen of the eight-county district will meet here Thursday night to consider four possibilities for endorsement in the primary.

Business News Firm Names Spangler to Manager Post

Spangler's appointment will become effective Sept. 15, according to the announcement. He is currently acting as receiver, appointed by the court for the going-out-of-business sale now under way at the Circleville Hardware Co.

Covered Bridges Get 'New Look'

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

A number of states are now giving a new look to the covered bridges within their borders. Tourists love them, and tourists mean money.

Various states — Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Oregon, to name just a few — are suddenly realizing their remaining covered bridges are "precious."

Two years ago the Illinois legislature passed a bill providing that the state department of public works and buildings maintain the last nine covered bridges within the state. Now the state highway department is erecting attractive markers alongside feeder roads, telling the tourist there is a covered bridge in the area.

In Parke County, Ind., there still are 38 covered bridges within this one county of the state, which rates it as "Indiana's Covered Bridge County."

Which state has the most covered bridges remaining? Pennsylvania has that honor with 347. Ohio and Indiana each "share" bridges listed as interstate, so Ohio has 233½ and Indiana 152½.

Vermont has 121 covered bridges, with four interstate. Strangely, Oregon is one of the few western states boasting covered bridges; it has 106. Wisconsin has a single covered structure left.

How popular is the covered bridge? So much so that fans are numerous enough to band together to form an organization called The National Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges, Inc., headquarters in Beverly, Mass.

The society holds regular monthly meetings, publishes a quarterly magazine, and has also published "The World Guide to Covered Bridges" which, incidentally, lists 1,344 covered bridges still remaining in the United States.

World-wide, the first covered bridge of record was in Babylon, about the time of the first Olympic games — circa 776 B.C. The oldest covered bridge in the world today seems to be the one spanning the Rhine at Basel, Switzerland, supposedly built in 1225.

Although some historians have claimed that George Washington crossed a certain covered bridge during the Revolutionary War, this is in error, for the first covered bridge in the U. S. was not built until 1804 and not covered until 1805. This bridge spanned the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia.

Various legends, ironic bits of history, even humorous philosophy are connected with many of today's remaining covered bridges.

The longest U.S. covered bridge is in Alabama, a 600-foot structure over the Tallapoosa River at Dadeville. The shortest bridge in the U. S., if not in the entire world, is the Smith Sawmill bridge spanning Sawmill Creek in Pennsylvania, length 16 feet.

This span over the Mary's River near Chester, Ill., is one of nine covered bridges remaining in that state.

creek for the 1965 inaugural and Logan Elm is at Carroll. For the most part, the coaches of the county teams know little about their first game foes.

For Logan Elm and Westfall, this will be the picture for the bulk of the year. Both schools have only one head coach and one assistant. With such a limited staff, it is impossible to scout other teams on the schedule.

WESTFALL'S new head coach, Joe Duncan, a product of Gallipolis, is looking forward to the opening game and the ensuing season with what may be termed "cautious optimism."

The first year mentor reports he has 12 or 13 seasoned football players. But with less than 30 hopefuls out for the fall sport, he has a definite lack of depth.

Currently, Tom Hamman, the fullback in Duncan's T attack, is slowed with a pulled muscle in the thigh. But he is expected to be ready for Friday.

About Amanda, Duncan reports he has heard they are "big but not graced with speed".

Offensive starters for the Mustangs will probably be Gary Liff at quarterback, Hamman at fullback and Gary Bowen and Ray Mowery at halfbacks.

On the line it will be Bill Gibson and Brad Thompson at ends Tom Green and Lew McFarland at tackles, Lew Gantz and Jim Garrett at guards and Norm O'Conner at center. This same unit will likely see the bulk of the defensive action, according to the Mustang coach.

LOGAN ELM coach Jim Colville reports he has heard Carroll has a big fullback who has good speed and good experience to go with him.

Colville feels Carroll could well be the toughest test for his unit during the season.

The Braves' coach reports depth has developed with surprising speed on his squad, noting the second team has progressed more than the first unit during the past week.

Adding to the depth is the addition of two new candidates, Steve Fouch and Mike Radabaugh. Both should see plenty of action.

On the offensive line it will be Paul King at center, Gary Courtright and Don Benner at guards, Gary Black and Mike Temple at tackles and Danny Dahl and Roy Strawser at ends. In the backfield, Kenny Palmer is at quarterback, Steve Burger and Jim Moorehead at running backs and Tim Huffman at flanker.

Rick Rawlins, who sustained a broken nose in early practice, is listed as a doubtful starter at end. In this case Strawser could move to the flanker position.

ALSO SLATED to see action at flanker is Larry Stant, who will start at corner back defensively. Larry Justice and Bruce Wolford, two big tackles, add good depth to the Logan Elm line.

Teays Valley's veteran coach Marie Waits said today he knows absolutely nothing about Walnut Ridge.

He was quick to point out, however, that "Ralph Webster has been in the coaching business for 30 years and always has fine ball clubs."

On the Vikings schedule the first year the high school was in operation, Walnut Ridge at that time ran primarily from a T or a winged T formation and used an Oklahoma defense.

The Teays Valley coaching staff is preparing for "the toughest game on the schedule," Waits comments about the opening test.

For Teays Valley, Bruce Reese will start at quarterback. John Smith is the Viking fullback while Richard Hay, Gerald Green, Jack Moats and Tim Wells are the leading halfback candidates.

THE TOP end prospects are Mike Lombardo, John Little and Rick Brown. Tackles Friday will be Danny Reed, Gene Neff and Dean Glitt. Guards will be Kenny Daft and Don Vosbury while Dick Myers and Cliff Nutter will share center duties.

Defensively, Green and Hay will play the deep safety spots. Bruce Reese and Mike Lombardo are the cornerbacks while Don Daft and Bill Dore are ends. Little and Meyers will be at the tackle slots, John Davie is the middle guard and Ken Daft and John Smith are linebackers.

Waits feels the junior high football program in the Teays Valley school system is beginning to pay off with added depth, which is noticeable on the squad this year.

Squirrel Hunters Prepared For Friday's Opening Day

The 1965 hunting season opens Friday at daylight when squirrel hunters take to the woods.

Pickaway County Game Protector Russell Tippet reports an excellent nut crop in the area. He feels squirrel hunters should enjoy one of the better seasons in recent years.

For squirrel season, the state is divided into three zones, all of which have the same opening date.

In the way of squirrel hunting, the season in the south deer zone closes Nov. 6, the north deer zone Nov. 8 and in the closed deer zone, Nov. 11.

THE BULK of Pickaway County lies within the closed deer zone. The area southeast of Route 159, which includes most of Saltcreek Twp. and part of Pickaway Twp., is in the south deer zone.

On public hunting areas in the closed deer zone, the squirrel season extends to Dec. 25. Hunting at A. W. Marion State Park is not permitted until after Oct. 15. Cloyce Hattery, park manager, pointed out the division of parks does not feel it is safe to permit hunting there since the area is used extensively by both picnickers and fishermen during the early fall.

Tippet urges all hunters to use extreme caution during the squirrel season. It is considered to be one of the most dangerous of all game seasons because foliage is usually extremely dense in good hunting areas.

The county game protector also stated that permission should be had from the landowner or tenant before a hunter enters the woods.

He suggested that hunters look for the yellow "hunting with permission" signs. Lands thus posted are participating in the state's hunting with permission program.

Pittsburgh's 'Cannonball' Faces Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers will do a reverse Saturday on the old movie bit where the guy in the penguin suit announces that dinner is served. The Steelers will serve the Browns.

He's Jim (Cannonball) Butler, a 14th round draft choice by the Steelers last winter who has come on strong. The Steelers will provide the opposition for the Cleveland Browns' exhibition season finale at the Akron Rubber Bowl.

Butler is on the small side for a National Football League running back at 5-foot-10, 190 pounds. But his credentials are impressive. During his senior year at small Edward Waters College in Jacksonville, Fla., Cannonball scored 28 touchdowns and against rival Friendly College, carried six times for six touchdowns.

The game wasn't exactly a hold - your - breath affair. "If memory serves me correctly, the final score was 14-0," Butler once told former Steeler coach Buddy Parker.

The Browns cut their squad to 41 by asking waivers on six players Tuesday, including one they don't intend to let go, quarterback Archie Roberts. Coach Blanton Collier likely will recall Roberts if any other NFL teams claim him.

Others put on waivers were three offensive linemen—tackle Roger Shoals, guard Bill Bryne and end Hugh McInnis. Completing the list were defensive end Dick Triesen, a first year man, and offensive halfback Jamie Caleb.

Columbus Leads In IL Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Columbus Jets, pennant-winners and favorites in the International League semifinal playoffs, have taken a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series with the Syracuse Chiefs.

The Jets squeezed past the Chiefs here Tuesday night, 2-1. Winning pitcher Steve Blass dueling all the way with loser Jack Hamilton, each giving up eight hits.

The Jets scored the winning run in the third on a single by Jose Martinez, followed by Johnny Powers' infield hit and a wild pitch. Syracuse catcher Jackie Moore threw wildly to third, allowing Martinez to cross the plate.

Leroy Moyers, winner of 192 races during 1964, led the Suffolk Downs jockeys with 65 winners at the Massachusetts track's 1965 spring meeting.

Michigan Hopes To Retain Crown

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Bump Elliott has an excellent chance to improve over Pete Elliott in the Big Ten's illustrious brother coaching act this football season.

All Bump has to do is direct his highly rated Michigan Wolverines to the first conference championship repeat in a decade—an acid test.

Pete led Illinois to the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl conquest in the 1963 season.

But Pete's heralded holdover Illinois crew succumbed to apost-Rose Bowl jinx last season to finish fourth while brother Bump's Wolverines swept the Big Ten and Rose Bowl crowns.

Now Bump must wrestle an identical problem—shooting for the Big Ten title minus Rose Bowl incentive with a Michigan squad tabbed the team to beat in the conference.

The Big Ten bans Rose Bowl encores, regardless of final standings.

Not since Ohio State in 1954-1955 has a Big Ten champion gone to the Rose Bowl and delivered a title the following year.

"I don't think Rose Bowl incentive is a factor in our club's attitude," said Elliott. "Our club wants to win every game and repeat as league champion."

He said firebrands in the 1965 campaign are linebacker - captain Tom Cecchini; brilliant Bill Yearby, 235 - pound defensive tackle; offensive end Steve Smith and tackle Tom Mack, both 230-pounders; and quarterback Dick Vidmer, inexperienced but a "fine field general."

Vidmer holds the key to Michigan's offensive success as replacement to graduated Bob Timberlake, last year's hard-running bellwether.

Vidmer, as a sophomore, was running neck-to-neck in competition with Timberlake early last fall until he suffered a broken leg which sidelined him for the season.

Michigan's running attack will be as good or better than last season with two superb halfbacks in Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward and a smashing letterman, Dave Fisher, at fullback. Defensively, the Wolverines should bristle with seven regulars back from last year's unit. The group includes 230 - pound tackle Paul Johnson, a full-blooded Chippewa Indian; and defensive backs Rick Volk and Rick Sygar, both adept offensive players.

Cuban Press Campaigns For Traffic Safety

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban press has called for a drive to diminish traffic accidents that have increased throughout the island since 1963, according to official statistics.

Havana radio quoted an editorial in the Communist paper Hoy which said 533 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1963.

Pickaway County Grid Teams Set For Opening Games Friday Night

The three high school football teams in the Pickaway County school system open their 1965 season Friday night with non-league road games.

Teays Valley is at Columbus Walnut Ridge, Westfall travels to Amanda - Clear-creek for the 1965 inaugural and Logan Elm is at Carroll.

For the most part, the coaches of the county teams know little about their first game foes.

For Logan Elm and Westfall, this will be the picture for the bulk of the year. Both schools have only one head coach and one assistant. With such a limited staff, it is impossible to scout other teams on the schedule.

ports he has heard they are "big but not graced with speed".

Offensive starters for the Mustangs will probably be Gary Liff at quarterback, Hamman at fullback and Gary Bowen and Ray Mowery at halfbacks.

On the line it will be Bill Gibson and Brad Thompson at ends, Tom Green and Lew McFarland at tackles, Lew Gantz and Jim Garrett at guards and Norm O'Conner at center. This same unit will likely see the bulk of the defensive action, according to the Mustang coach.

addition of two new candidates, Steve Fouch and Mike Radabaugh. Both should see plenty of action.

On the offensive line it will be Paul King at center, Gary Courtwright and Don Benner at guards, Gary Black and Mike Temple at tackles and Danny Dahl and Roy Strawser at ends. In the backfield, Kenny Palmer is at quarterback, Steve Burger and Jim Moorehead at running backs and Tim Huffman at flanker.

WESTFALL'S new head coach, Joe Duncan, a product of Gallipolis, is looking forward to the opening game and the ensuing season with what may be termed "cautious optimism."

The first year mentor reports he has 12 or 13 seasoned football players. But with less than 30 hopefuls out of the fall sport, he has a definite lack of depth.

Currently, Tom Hamman, the fullback in Duncan's T attack, is slowed with a pulled muscle in the thigh. But he is expected to be ready for Friday.

About Amanda, Duncan re-

LOGAN ELM coach Jim Colville reports he has heard Carroll has a big fullback who has good speed and good experience to go with him.

Colville feels Carroll could well be the toughest test for his unit during the season.

The Braves' coach reports depth has developed with surprising speed on his squad, noting the second team has progressed more than the first unit during the past week.

Adding to the depth is the

ALSO SLATED to see action at flanker is Larry Stant, who will start at corner back defensively. Larry Justice and Bruce Wolford, two big tackles, add good depth to the Logan Elm line.

Teays Valley's veteran coach Marj. Waits said today he knows absolutely nothing about Walnut Ridge.

He was quick to point out, however, that "Ralph Webster has been in the coaching business for 30 years and always has fine ball clubs."

On the Vikings schedule the first year high school was in operation, Walnut Ridge at that time ran primarily from a T or a winged T formation and used an Oklahoma defense.

The Teays Valley coaching staff is preparing for "the toughest game on the schedule," Waits comments about the opening test.

Squirrel Hunters Prepared For Friday's Opening Day

The 1965 hunting season opens Friday at daylight when squirrel hunters take to the woods.

Pickaway County Game Protector Russell Tippet reports an excellent nut crop in the area. He feels squirrel hunters should enjoy one of the better seasons in recent years.

For squirrel season, the state is divided into three zones, all of which have the same opening date.

In the way of squirrel hunting, the season in the south deer zone closes Nov. 6, the north deer zone Nov. 8 and in the closed deer zone, Nov. 11.

THE BULK of Pickaway County lies within the closed deer zone. The area southeast of Route 159, which includes most of Saltcreek Twp. and part of Pickaway Twp., is in the south deer zone.

On public hunting areas in the closed deer zone, the squirrel season extends to Dec. 25.

Hunting at A. W. Marion State Park is not permitted until after Oct. 15. Cloyce Hattery, park manager, pointed out the division of parks does not feel it is safe to permit hunting there since the area is used extensively by both picnickers and fishermen during the early fall.

Tippet urges all hunters to use extreme caution during the squirrel season. It is considered to be one of the most dangerous of all game seasons because foliage is usually extremely dense in good hunting areas.

The county game protector also stated that permission should be had from the landowner or tenant before a hunter enters the woods.

He suggested that hunters look for the yellow "hunting with permission" signs. Lands thus posted are participating in the state's hunting with permission program.

Pittsburgh's 'Cannonball' Faces Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers will do a reverse Saturday on the old movie bit where the guy in the penguin suit announces that dinner is served. The Steelers will serve the Butler.

He's Jim (Cannonball) Butler, a 14th round draft choice by the Steelers last winter who has come on strong. The Steelers will provide the opposition for the Cleveland Browns' exhibition season finale at the Akron Rubber Bowl.

Butler is on the small side for a National Football League running back at 5-foot-10, 190 pounds. But his credentials are impressive. During his senior year at small Edward Waters College in Jacksonville, Fla., Cannonball scored 28 touchdowns and against rival Friendly College, carried six times for six touchdowns.

The game wasn't exactly a hold - your - breath affair. "If memory serves me correctly, the final score was 14-0," Butler once told former Steeler coach Buddy Parker.

The Browns cut their squad to 41 by asking waivers on six players Tuesday, including one they don't intend to let go, quarterback Archie Roberts. Coach Blanton Collier likely will recall Roberts if any other NFL teams claim him.

Others put on waivers were three offensive linemen—tackle Roger Shoals, guard Bill Byrne and end Hugh McInnis. Completing the list were defensive end Dick Triesen, a first year man, and offensive halfback Jamie Caleb.

Columbus Leads In IL Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Columbus Jets, pennant winners and favorites in the International League semifinal playoffs, have taken a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series with the Syracuse Chiefs.

The Jets squeezed past the Chiefs here Tuesday night, 2-1. Winning pitcher Steve Blass dueling all the way with loser Jack Hamilton, each giving up eight hits.

The Jets scored the winning run in the third on a single by Jose Martinez, followed by Johnny Powers' infield hit and a wild pitch. Syracuse catcher Jackie Moore threw wildly to third, allowing Martinez to cross the plate.

Leroy Moyers, winner of 192 races during 1964, led the Suffolk Downs jockeys with 65 winners at the Massachusetts track's 1965 spring meeting.

Michigan Hopes To Retain Crown

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Bump Elliott has an excellent chance to improve over Pete Elliott in the Big Ten's illustrious brother coaching act this football season.

All Bump has to do is direct his highly rated Michigan Wolverines to the first conference championship repeat in a decade—an acid test.

Pete led Illinois to the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl conquest in the 1963 season.

But Pete's heralded holdover Rose Bowl jinx last season to finish fourth while brother Bump's Wolverines swept the Big Ten and Rose Bowl crowns.

Now Bump must wrestle an identical problem—shooting for the Big Ten title minus Rose Bowl incentive with a Michigan squad tabbed the team to beat in the conference.

The Big Ten bans Rose Bowl encores, regardless of final standings.

Not since Ohio State in 1954-1955 has a Big Ten champion gone to the Rose Bowl and delivered a title the following year.

"I don't think Rose Bowl incentive is a factor in our club's attitude," said Elliott. "Our club wants to win every game and repeat as league champion."

He said firebrands in the 1965 campaign are linebacker - captain Tom Cechini; brilliant Bill Yearby, 235 - pound defensive tackle; offensive end Steve Smith and tackle Tom Mack, both 230-pounders; and quarterback Dick Vidmer, inexperienced but a "fine field general."

Vidmer holds the key to Michigan's offensive success as replacement to graduated Bob Timberlake, last year's hard-running bellwether.

Vidmer, as a sophomore, was running neck-to-neck in competition with Timberlake early last fall until he suffered a broken leg which sidelined him for the season.

Michigan's running attack will be as good or better than last season with two superb halfbacks in Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward and a smashing letterman, Dave Fisher, at fullback. Defensively, the Wolverines should bristle with seven regulars back from last year's unit. The group includes 230 - pound tackle Paul Johnson, a full-blooded Chippewa Indian; and defensive backs Rick Volk and Rick Sygar, both adept offensive players.

Cuban Press Campaigns For Traffic Safety

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban press has called for a drive to diminish traffic accidents that have increased throughout the island since 1963, according to official statistics.

Havana radio quoted an editorial in the Communist paper Hoy which said 533 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1963.

Cards Formidable Threat In East Conference Chase

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Bill Triplett's return to health and the maturing of Charley Johnson make the St. Louis Cardinals a formidable threat to win the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League.

The Cards haven't won the crown since they moved to St. Louis in 1960. They hadn't won at Chicago, either, since 1948 when they swept the division crown but lost the championship game.

Wally Lemm came so close last year when he lost by a half-game that he is coming back with the same ball club, with the exception of Triplett. Lemm believes that a club that beat Cleveland once and tied once doesn't need much tinkering to take it all.

Defeats by New York, Dallas and Baltimore and another tie game with New York left the Cards one-half game out at the end, although they were 6-0-1 in their last seven and then whipped Green Bay in the Play-off Bowl.

"You have to go along with Cleveland as the team to beat," said Lemm. "Washington is greatly improved and is going to have a great effect on the race. Pittsburgh always gives us trouble and everybody knows the Giants and Cowboys hurt us. Philadelphia can give you a rough afternoon."

"We have more defensive depth with the addition of Abe Woodson from San Francisco. We are counting on Dave Simmons, our No. 2 draft pick from Georgia Tech, to help us at line-backer or defensive end where we had problems last year."

"I consider Charley Johnson the best young quarterback in the league, including Fran Tarkenton. To me his only problem is not throwing the ball out of bounds and forcing his passes. I want him to get rid of the ball but not into a crowd."

Triplett will be at halfback, with Joe Chidress at fullback. Thunder Thornton, Willis Crenshaw, Prentice Gault and Bob Paremore give Lemm a deep reserve of runners to fill the gap left by John David Crow, traded to the 49ers for Woodson.

Sonny Randle, the fleet split end who missed half the 1964 season due to a shoulder separation, is back. With Bobby Joe Conrad at flanker and Jackie Smith at tight end, Johnson has first class receivers. Billy Gambrell, the game little fellow who filled in for Randall, will be more valuable for the experience.

Lemm thinks he is in good shape up front in his offensive line with the talented Bob DeMarco at center and all-league Ken Gray at one guard and Irv Goode at the other. Ernie McMillan handles one tackle job and Herschel Turner is fighting Bob Reynolds for the other.

The front four of Joe Robb, Sam Silas, Duke Owens and Dob Brumm is intact. Larry Stallings, Dale Meinert and Bill Koman again are the linebackers and Pat Fischer, Larry Wilson, Larry Stovall and Jimmy Hurston or Woodson will man the deep defense.

Lemm has a big scoring weapon in Jim Bakken, his place kicker who scored 115 points last year.

Nicklaus Favored In World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The English bookmakers are quoting even money on Jack Nicklaus to win the World Series of Golf this weekend. If he does, it'll be a great comeback on a par 70 course that stymied him last month.

Cyril Stein, managing director of Ladbroke's, largest bookmaking house in England where betting establishments are legal, quotes Nicklaus as the best bet.

Behind Nicklaus are U.S. Open champ Gary Player of South Africa at 6 to 4, British Open titlist Peter Thomson of Australia at 8 to 1 and Texan Dave Marr, PGA champ, at 10 to 1.

When Eddie Arcaro, now retired, rode Kelso to victory in the 1961 Brooklyn Handicap it marked the rider's sixth victory in the mile and a quarter race.

Dodgers See Giants Move Into First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Dodgers wish the Giants had left their Hart in San Francisco.

They had to leave Juan Marichal there, but they brought Jim Hart with them and as a result, the Dodgers are out of first place in the National League for only the 18th day this season.

Hart drove in all of the runs with a single and a homer Tuesday night as the Giants jumped into the lead for the first time by trimming Los Angeles 3-1.

The victory, their fourth straight, put the Giants two percentage points ahead of the Dodgers, one-half game ahead of Cincinnati, one in front of Milwaukee and four ahead of Pittsburgh.

The triumph also gave them a sweep of the two-game series, a sweep accomplished without the help of 20-game winner Juan Marichal, who was banned from Los Angeles because of his bat-swinging incident with Dodger catcher John Roseboro.

The two-day ban, in effect, extended Marichal's eight-day suspension over the incident to 10, which puts him nine days ahead of Hart.

The third baseman-left fielder was hit with a one-day suspension July 25 by Giants' Manager Herman Franks for breaking training regulations. Franks at first said the suspension was indefinite but reinstated Hart after he went to the manager the next day and apologized.

Since then Hart has been greatly responsible for pushing the Giants to the top. In 90 games before the suspension, he batted .281 with nine homers and 47 runs batted in. But in just 44 games since, he is hitting .323 while slamming 12 homers and driving in 36 runs.

The Dodgers also felt Hart's bat Monday as he hit a two-run homer that tied the game 5-5. The Giants went on to win 7-6 in 12 innings.

In the only other NL game Tuesday, Cincinnati whipped Pittsburgh 5-0.

In the American League, Cleveland downed Chicago 9-5, Baltimore swept New York 4-2 and 9-5 and Detroit beat Boston 5-3.

Los Angeles is idle today while the Giants play Houston. Hart's first-inning single, following singles by Jesus Alou and Willie Mays, put the Giants ahead 1-0. The Dodgers tied it against Bob Shaw in the third on doubles by Wes Parker and Roseboro.

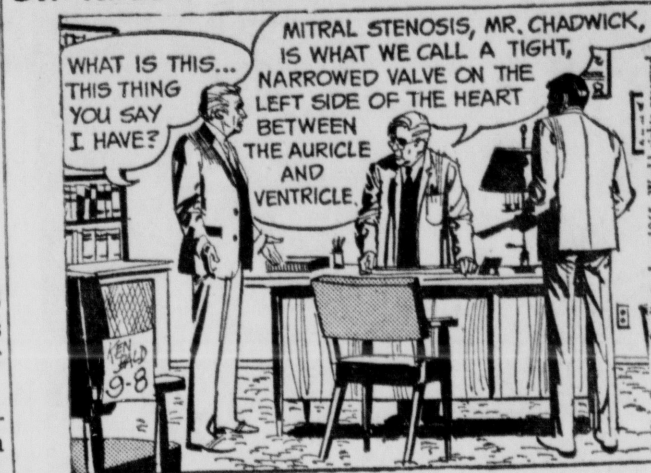

Then, in the fifth, Claude Osteen walked Mays, and Hart connected for his 21st home run into the center field pavilion. Masanori Murakami relieved Shaw with one on and two out in the eighth and set down the Dodgers the rest of the way.

Sammy Ellis gained his 18th victory against eight defeats, limiting the Pirates to three hits and striking out 10. The Reds put the game away with four runs in the fourth inning, two on Frank Robinson's double and the last on John Edwards' homer. Don Cardwell started his own downfall by hitting Vada Pinson with a pitch.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees have the job now of squaring separate bills passed by the Senate and House to finance a new assistance program for grade and high schools.

The measure passed by the Senate Tuesday granted $1,511,000,000 to carry out the program. This is $814 million more generous than the House bill but $144 million less than President Johnson asked.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—More than 4,000 Communist-led demonstrators did minor damage to the American consulate at Surabaya, East Java, Tuesday and demanded that it be closed, U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

None of the five Americans at the consulate was injured, the spokesman said, but staff members' cars parked in front were damaged.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—France failed to join its other seven partners in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today in congratulating the anti-Communist alliance on its 11th anniversary.

The action—unprecedented in SEATO's history — was interpreted as another move by French President Charles de Gaulle to disassociate his government from SEATO support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic government has accused the extremist Moslem Brotherhood of plotting to overthrow the regime of President Gamal Abdel Nasser through a campaign of terrorism and murder.

The alleged plot was disclosed following the arrest of more than 1,000 supporters of the fanatical Brotherhood, which was forced underground after it broke with Nasser in 1952.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The full strength of the Vatican's Swiss Guard has been cut from 100 to 75, and the guard is down to 68 men because of recruiting difficulties.

Vatican sources said the reduced on-paper strength went into effect July 1. The guard's chief function is to protect the life of the Pope.

MOSCOW (AP)—A blistering attack by Soviet Communist party leaders on former Premier Nikita Khrushchev is on sale in Moscow bookstores.

Khrushchev was capricious and ignorant and led Russia to agricultural failures, top Communists said in speeches to a meeting of the party Central Committee last March. A report of the meeting, published Tuesday, contained the harshest public criticism of the deposed premier since he was ousted last October.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—David O. McKay, leader of the world's 2.3 million Mormons, celebrates his 92nd birthday today and says: "I haven't an ache or pain. I have no druggery, and every moment of life is a pleasure."

The president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and his wife, Emma, 88, will be given a dinner by his four sisters at nearby Huntsville.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie actor George Raft pleaded guilty Tuesday to one count of federal income tax evasion, but said it was the result of a mistake.

Raft, 69, was indicted last week on six counts of tax evasion for the period 1953-63. When he is sentenced Sept. 28, the judge will dispose of the remaining counts.

NEW YORK (AP)—James H. Meredith, the Negro whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi touched off racial violence on its campus, has been accepted by Columbia University Law School in New York City.

What Do Strange Emus Eat? Spaghetti Is One Favorite

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

In an age when many people are concerned with problems of diet, Mrs. I. Strano, of Brisbane, Australia, even has a pet with a particular problem.

Mrs. Strano, who operates a boarding house for girls, should have "heard everything" about odd eating habits by this time. But when she brought a pet into the boarding house her problems multiplied.

First of all, Mrs. Strano selected an emu—a large, flightless bird related to the ostrich and the cassowary—to be the household pet of her boarders. Secondly, she didn't realize her emu, named Jacky, might grow to be five feet tall (and he's only six months old). And thirdly, she didn't count on Jacky's strange eating habits: he prefers spaghetti to anything else.

Jacky has other strange habits, too. He likes to hide under the dining room table, and to pop his long feathered neck out suddenly to frighten new boarders. And he likes to walk silently up behind Mrs. Strano's boarders and nip them behind the ear.

Mrs. Strano insists he's only being playful. "When he's fully grown," she admits, "I'm afraid he may be a real problem because he's so strong. At the moment, though, the girls love him. He sees them off every morning when they go to work and waits to meet them at the front gate when they come home at night."

By the time he's full-grown Jacky will stand six feet tall. And as he grows, so will his appetite.

Every day, besides his allotment of spaghetti, he eats three loaves of bread, eight apples and any food scraps from the table as well as a generous helping of grass for dessert.

He developed his taste for spaghetti when, as a tiny chick, Strano found him wandering in the woods, brought him home, and Mrs. Strano tempted Jacky into eating with a dish of spaghetti she had just cooked for her boarders. He's been a "spaghetti fiend" ever since.

On hot winter days in Australia Jacky demands an hourly sprinkling with the garden hose or Mrs. Strano pours him a tub of water where he can sit and keep cool.

The boarding housekeeper doesn't recommend an emu for every home—if they're all like Jacky. They're just too demanding. And who feels like cooking an order of spaghetti every day, just for an emu?

However, Mrs. Strano loves birds, and is taking good care of Jacky. One reason is, the bird is in danger of extinction in Australia. For that reason, among others, she thinks she'll present him to the Brisbane Zoo very soon. She'll miss Jacky, she says—and so, she insists, will her boarders.

'Ambassador' Named To Cuban Exile Group

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A diplomat with long experience in Latin America is the new U.S. "ambassador" to the Cuban exile colony.

Henry L. Taylor, until recently political officer at the embassy in Panama, has assumed the post of coordinator of Cuban affairs here.

Taylor said his office really isn't "in any sense an embassy," though it's often called that and some of its functions parallel those of a diplomatic mission.

Police Easily Grab False Alarm Sender

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Police nabbed without trouble the culprit who turned in two false alarms here.

"He was waving to the firemen when they drove up," police said. They said an unidentified 5-year-old boy reached the fire alarm boxes either by standing on his wagon or a tricycle.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees have the job now of squaring separate bills passed by the Senate and House to finance a new assistance program for grade and high schools.

The measure passed by the Senate Tuesday granted $1,151,000,000 to carry out the program. This is $814 million more generous than the House bill but $144 million less than President Johnson asked.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—More than 4,000 Communist-led demonstrators did minor damage to the American consulate at Surabaya, East Java, Tuesday and demanded that it be closed, U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

None of the five Americans at the consulate was injured, the spokesman said, but staff members' cars parked in front were damaged.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—France failed to join its other seven partners in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today in congratulating the anti-Communist alliance on its 11th anniversary.

The action—unprecedented in SEATO's history — was interpreted as another move by French President Charles de Gaulle to disassociate his government from SEATO support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic government has accused the extremist Moslem Brotherhood of plotting to overthrow the regime of President Gamal Abdel Nasser through a campaign of terrorism and murder.

The alleged plot was disclosed following the arrest of more than 1,000 supporters of the fanatical Brotherhood, which was forced underground after it broke with Nasser in 1952.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The full strength of the Vatican's Swiss Guard has been cut from 100 to 75, and the guard is down to 68 men because of recruiting difficulties.

Vatican sources said the reduced on-paper strength went into effect July 1. The guard's chief function is to protect the life of the Pope.

MOSCOW (AP)—A blistering attack by Soviet Communist party leaders on former Premier Nikita Khrushchev is on sale in Moscow bookstores.

Khrushchev was capricious and ignorant and led Russia to agricultural failures, top Communists said in speeches to a meeting of the party Central Committee last March. A report of the meeting, published Tuesday, contained the harshest public criticism of the deposed premier since he was ousted last October.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—David O. McKay, leader of the world's 2.3 million Mormons, celebrates his 92nd birthday today and says: "I haven't an ache or pain. I have no drugery, and every moment of life is a pleasure."

The president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and his wife, Emma, 88, will be given a dinner by his four sisters at nearby Huntsville.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie actor George Raft pleaded guilty Tuesday to one count of federal income tax evasion, but said it was the result of a mistake.

Raft, 69, was indicted last week on six counts of tax evasion for the period 1953-63. When he is sentenced Sept. 28, the judge will dispose of the remaining counts.

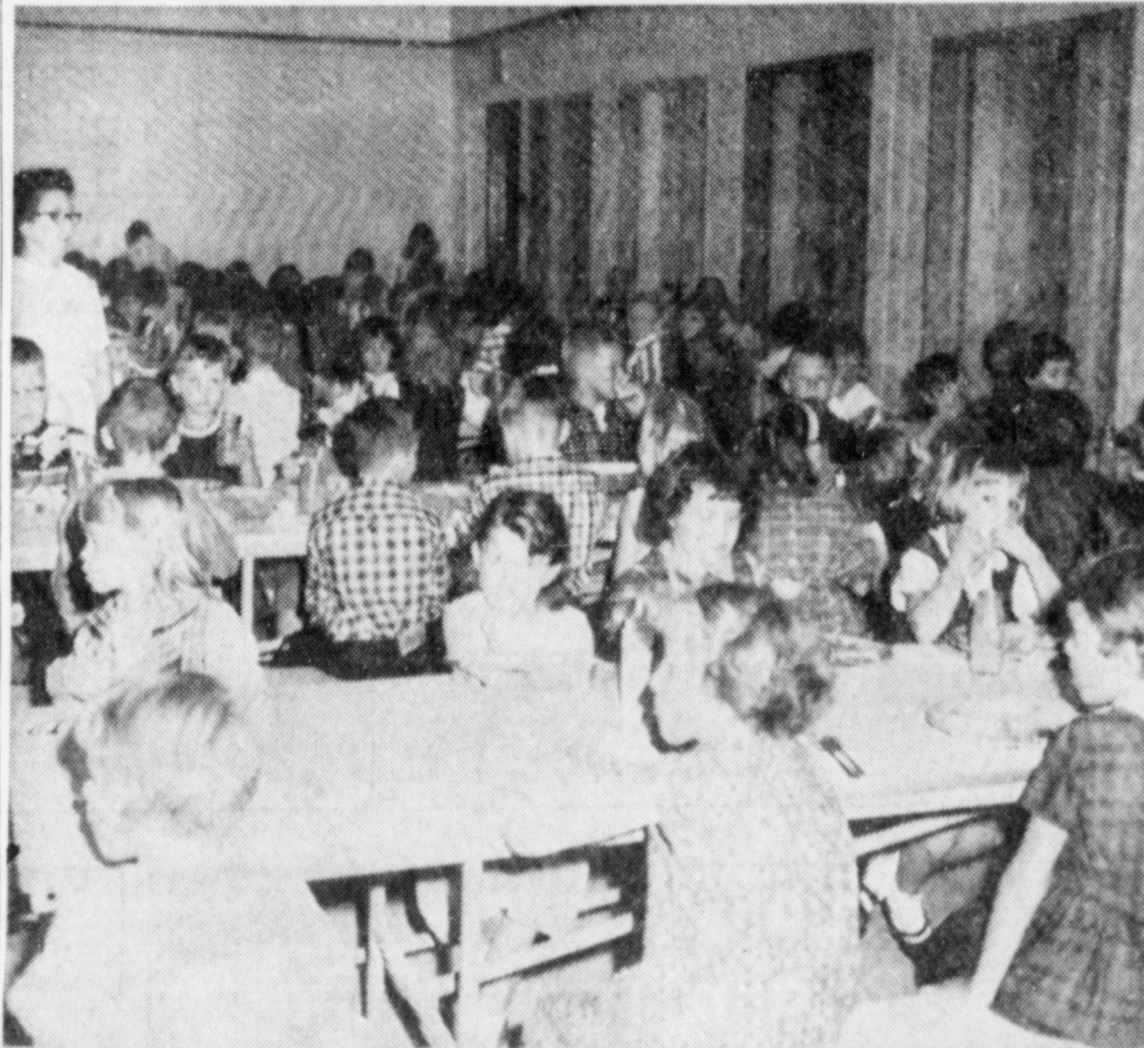

NEW YORK (AP)—James H. Meredith, the Negro whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi touched off racial violence on its campus, has been accepted by Columbia University Law School in New York City.

Meredith, who will register on Monday, has a $2,000 Columbia scholarship grant for tuition and books and a two-bedroom apartment.
